Each such notification shall be deemed as sufficient notice and it is your duty to check regularly this Agreement on our Online Trading Facility regarding any such Changes. All amended terms shall be effective

1.1 This Agreement is made between yourself, as our client (hereinafter referred to as "you" or "your" or, in general terms, the "client") and Mega Fusion Group (Pty) Ltd a limited liability company formed under the laws of South Africa and regulated by the Financial Services Commission, having its registered office at 29 First Avenue East, Parktown North, Johannesburg, Gauteng, South Africa 2193 and any of its designated and permitted successors, assigns and those of its subsidiaries and affiliates that are identified further in this Agreement (also trading under the name "Mega" henceforth the "Company", "us", "our", "we" or "Mega"). 2. Electronic Signatures and Acceptance of Agreement(s)

2.1 You hereby expressly acknowledge and agree that:

- (a) By downloading, completing and/or submitting to us the account documentation and forms posted on our Online Trading Facility (hereinafter referred to as the “Account Opening Application Form(s)”) and/or clicking in the appropriate space, or on the “I Accept” button, or similar buttons or links as may be designated by us to show your approval and acceptance of this Agreement; and/or
- (b) By accessing and/or by continuing to access or use, our Online Trading Facility, you are entering into a legally binding contract by and between you and us, and you fully agree to abide by and to be bound by all the Terms and Conditions set out in this Agreement, as they may apply to you.

2.2 You hereby agree to communications being made, and to the delivery of this Agreement and/or any agreements by and between us, or changes in these Terms and Conditions, via electronic media (including, without limitation, website postings, e-mails, or other electronic means) to the extent permitted by Applicable Laws, Rules and/or Regulations. Communications being made via electronic media in order to enter into contracts, place Orders and other records and to the electronic delivery of notices, policies and records through our Online Trading Facility and/or in relation thereto, shall, to the extent permitted by Applicable Laws, Rules and/or Regulations, be treated as satisfying any legal requirement that a communication should be ‘signed’ and ‘in writing’.

2.3 If your signature or acknowledgement is required or requested with respect to any such document and you “click” in the appropriate space, or on the “I Accept” button, “Submit” button, or on similar buttons or links as may be designated by us to show your approval and acceptance thereof, or take such other action as may be indicated on our Online Trading Facility, you will be deemed to have ‘signed’ and/or ‘acknowledged’ the document to the same extent and with the same effect as if you had signed the document manually. To the extent permitted under applicable mandatory law, you hereby waive any rights or requirements under any Applicable Laws, Rules and/or Regulations in any jurisdiction, which require an original (non-electronic) signature or delivery or retention of non-electronic records.

2.4 You hereby expressly acknowledge your understanding that you have the right to withdraw your consent to the electronic delivery and signature of documents at any time by providing prior written notice to us. However, if you revoke your consent, your access to and/or use of our Online Trading Facility may be restricted or terminated, at our sole discretion and without any obligation on our end to provide you with any explanation and/or justification thereof.

3. Acceptance and Scope of Agreement(s)

3.1 We shall evaluate the Account Opening Application Form(s) you submitted for the purpose of becoming a client of us and shall inform you by e-mail whether your application is accepted or not. We reserve the right to refuse and/or decline your application(s), at our sole discretion and for any reason, without being obliged to provide you with any explanation or justification.

3.2 Without prejudice to the provisions of sub-clause 2.1 hereinabove, in particular as regards your acceptance and acknowledgement of this Agreement, we will become a counterparty bound to this Agreement, and this Agreement will become binding on us, only as of the date on which we are sending the above-mentioned confirmation e-mail, as indicated thereon (the "Effective Date").

3.3 This Agreement applies to all of our online trading platforms, including but not limited to all electronic content or software services we provide (including but not limited to real-time market data, price quotes for supported trading instruments, etc.); it also covers trading execution software provided through the Internet, electronic communications, website notices, emails, phone, or otherwise, and any other features, content or services that we may add in the future.

3.4 Some areas or parts of our Online Trading Facility may have different specific terms of access and/or use posted thereon. If there is a conflict and/or discrepancy between these Terms and Conditions and any such specific terms of access and/or use, the latter shall have precedence with respect to your access and/or use of such relevant area or part of our Online Trading Facility.

3.5 We may from time to time provide you further information in respect of certain Transactions and/or Contracts, which may contain specific legal and/or contractual provisions applicable with respect to such Transactions and/or Contracts. In the event of any conflict and/or discrepancy between the clauses of this Agreement and/or its appendices, supplementary conditions, attachments, schedules, etc., and the legal and/or contractual provisions set forth in such communications to you in respect of certain Transactions and/or Contracts, the latter shall prevail. The fact that a legal and/or contractual provision is specifically set forth herein, or is included in a specific communication to you, in respect of one particular Transaction and/or Contract, shall not preclude a similar legal and/or contractual provision being expressed or implied, or being applicable, in relation to any other Transaction and/or Contract.

3.6 We reserve the right to amend, modify, delete, or add to the terms of this Agreement at any time, and may make such modifications at our sole discretion, without prior notice or warning.

3.7 In the event of any changes to the terms, we will publish a notice of the changes on our Online Trading Facility or notify you through other means. Each notice shall be deemed to be fully communicated, and it is your responsibility to regularly review this Agreement and platform notices to ensure you are aware of the latest changes. All amended terms shall take effect either upon the first publication or upon your first access to or use of the Online Trading Facility, whichever occurs earlier.

3.8 If you continue to access or use the Online Trading Facility after the changes have been published, it shall be deemed that you agree to and accept the revised terms, and your use will be governed by the updated terms and conditions. If you do not wish to be bound by the changed terms, please immediately cease accessing or using the Online Trading Facility and notify us in writing.

4. Integrity, Severability, and Interpretation of the Agreement

4.1 Integrity of the Agreement

This Agreement (including its annexes, appendices, addenda, attachments, schedules and/or any amendments) constitutes the entire agreement between you and us regarding the access and use of our Online Trading Facility, and supersedes all prior arrangements or agreements, whether express or implied, concerning the subject matter hereof, unless otherwise explicitly stated in writing and mutually agreed upon by the parties, as set forth in the "Terms Agreed Upon by Mutual Consent of the Parties."

However, in such cases, only the affected provisions shall be modified to the necessary extent to comply with legal requirements, and the validity of the remaining provisions of this Agreement shall not be affected.

4.3 Severability of Provisions

Each part of this Agreement is a distinct undertaking. In the event that any provision of this Agreement is held to be invalid, illegal or unenforceable in any respect by a

4.4 Adoption and Modification of Provisions

With respect to the provisions of this Agreement, which are held to be invalid or unenforceable, in whole or in part, the Parties will negotiate in good faith with the intention to replace the void provision with a valid one that in its economic effect complies best with the void provision in a manner consistent with their joint intention as expressed herein and this Agreement shall, to the fullest extent lawful, be reformed and construed as if such invalid or illegal or unenforceable provision, or part of a provision, had never been contained herein, and such provision or part reformed so that it would be valid, legal and enforceable to the maximum extent possible.

4.5 Reasonable Adjustment of Provisions

Without limiting the foregoing, if any provision (or part of provision) contained in this Agreement shall for any reason be held to be excessively broad as to duration, activity or subject, it shall be construed by limiting and reducing it, so as to be enforceable to the fullest extent compatible with then existing applicable law.

4.6 Document and Terminology Interpretation

- (a) Electronic Documents: The term "documents" mentioned in this agreement shall be understood to include electronic documents;
- (b) Use of "Including": The term "including" used in this agreement shall be interpreted as "including without limitation," unless otherwise required;
- (c) Technical Meaning of Certain Terms: The terms "buy" or "sell" in this agreement shall be interpreted as technical terms and shall not represent any form of transfer of ownership. This agreement does not apply to transactions involving financial instruments that require physical delivery.

Unless the context requires otherwise, the words in this agreement shall be interpreted as follows:

- (a) Gender and Number: Words in the masculine gender shall include the feminine and neuter genders, and the singular shall include the plural, and vice versa;

- (d) You shall use such data or information only in accordance with all applicable laws, rules, and regulations.

13.4 Neither we, nor our officers, principals, employees, Representatives or Agents shall be liable to any person for any losses, damages, costs or expenses (including, but not limited to, loss of profits, loss of use, direct, indirect, incidental or consequential damages) resulting from any errors in, omissions of or alterations to any such tools, websites, newsletters and/or information. The foregoing shall apply regardless of whether a claim arises in contract, tort, negligence, strict liability otherwise.

14. Access, Usage Restrictions, and Transaction Adjustments

14.1 You shall be solely responsible for providing and maintaining the means by which to access and use our Online Trading Facility, which may include, but shall not be limited to, a personal computer, modem and mobile phone or other access line and bear all associated access and service fees. Furthermore, you assume all risks associated with accessing our online trading execution platform through your devices, and you are responsible for ensuring appropriate security measures to protect against computer viruses, malware, or other harmful code that may damage or compromise your devices, data, or information.

14.2 We shall not be liable for any loss, delay, or other damages arising from telecommunication or computer equipment failures, network interruptions, data errors, technical issues, or mismanagement. While the internet and global networks are generally reliable, technical problems or other conditions may still cause delays or prevent you from accessing and/or using our online trading execution platform.

14.3 We reserve the right to suspend the operation of our Online Trading Facility, or any part(s) or sections thereof, at any time. In such an event, we may, at our sole discretion (with or without notice), close out your open positions, Transactions and/or Contracts at prices we consider fair and reasonable at such a time, and no claims may be entertained against us in connection thereto.

14.4 We may, at our sole discretion, impose volume or other limits on any all Accounts.

14.5 Contract pay-outs shall be determined by us on the daily data reported on our online trading execution platform and reference the interbank transaction data we receive. However, in the event of erroneous pricing or typographical errors in the data, we reserve the right to correct the relevant data.

14.6 You will not transmit to, or in any way, whether directly or indirectly, expose us or any of our online service providers to any infection or viruses, worms, Trojan horses or other code that manifest contaminating or destructive properties and/or other similar harmful or inappropriate materials, devices, information or data.

14.7 You agree to be fully and personally liable for the due settlement of every Transaction and/or Contract entered into through your Account with us. You are responsible for ensuring that, unless we otherwise agree beforehand and in writing, you, and only you, shall control access to your Account, and that no Minor or other person is granted access to trading on our Online Trading Facility using your Account. In any event, you, and only you, shall remain fully liable for any and all positions traded in your Account, and for any credit card transactions entered into for your Account. You agree to indemnify us fully in respect to all costs and losses whatsoever, as may be incurred by us and/or by you as a result, direct or indirect, of your failure to perform or settle such a transaction.

14.8 If the execution price of a transaction or contract deviates from the market price, or if the transaction price is extremely low or high due to a technical error ("erroneous pricing"), it may be caused by undetected programming bugs, system defects, or other technical issues. We reserve the right to cancel such transactions or contracts. Erroneous pricing may also result from abnormal prices from third-party data providers, input errors by traders, misquotations by liquidity providers, or failures of any third-party systems. In such cases, we are not liable for any losses arising from erroneous pricing and reserve the right to make necessary adjustments or corrections to the account. All trading disputes will be resolved at our sole discretion, and we reserve the final decision-making authority.

15. Technical Issues and Disclaimer of Liability

While we will make every effort to maintain the stability of the system, you acknowledge that technical issues may lead to irregular transactions or execution delays, and neither we, our agents, nor any third-party service providers shall be liable for any loss or impact caused by technical issues, system failures, or other uncontrollable factors. You agree not to make claims or hold us or the related parties liable. These issues may affect your access to or use of our online trading execution platform and may be beyond our control. Furthermore, we do not represent, warrant, or guarantee the following, including but not limited to:

(a) System Errors

You understand and agree that our online trading software may be affected by transmission errors, technical failures, unauthorized interference with the equipment, network connectivity issues, third-party access restrictions, internet disruptions, or deficiencies by internet service providers, and may even be unavailable. Therefore, we reserve the right to suspend access to the online trading software without prior notice, and we shall not be liable for any resulting damages.

(b) Transaction Delays and Order Execution

Neither we nor any third-party service providers shall be responsible for any delays, inaccuracies, or errors in transactions caused by technical issues, network congestion, or market volatility, nor do we guarantee that orders will be executed accurately or under the conditions you expect.

(c) Malicious Software Risks

We are not responsible if any computer virus, worm, software bomb, or similar malicious software enters your computer system via our online trading software, whether or not such issues are caused by our breach or negligence (including oversight). However, we have taken reasonable measures to prevent such occurrences.

(d) Security Responsibility for Customer Equipment

You warrant that you will not introduce any computer viruses, worms, logic bombs, or similar malicious programs into our online trading software. If such malicious software originates from your computer system, you shall indemnify us for any loss caused and take reasonable measures to ensure the security of your equipment, including regularly updating antivirus software and promptly reporting any abnormal conditions.

(e) Third-Party Service Impact

Our system may rely on liquidity providers, data suppliers, or other third-party technologies. If such third-party systems fail or malfunction, causing inaccurate pricing or affecting transaction execution, we shall not be held liable.

(f) Availability Limitations

We do not represent, warrant or guarantee that you will be able to access and/or use our Online Trading Facility at all times or locations of your choosing, or that we will have adequate capacity for our Online Trading Facility as a whole or in any geographic location.

16. Manifest Errors

16.1 A “Manifest Error” means a manifest or obvious misquote by us, or any market, exchange, price providing bank, information source, commentator or official on whom we reasonably rely, having regard to the market conditions at the time an Order is placed. We may determine, based on all available information, including but not limited to market conditions, erroneous information sources, or ambiguities in announcements, whether a situation constitutes an obvious error, without the need for further notice.

16.2 We will, when making a determination as to whether a situation amounts to a Manifest Error, act fairly towards you but the fact that you may have entered into, or refrained from entering into, a corresponding financial commitment, contract or Transaction in reliance on an Order placed with us (or that you may have suffered or may suffer any loss of profit, consequential or indirect loss) shall not be taken into account by us in determining whether there has been a Manifest Error. We reserve the right, without prior notice, to:

- (a) Amend the details of such a Transaction to reflect what we reasonably consider in our discretion, acting in good faith, to have been the correct or fair terms of such Transaction if the Manifest Error(s) had not occurred;
- (b) If you do not promptly agree to any amendment made which we propose under this clause (which we will notify you of via the Trading Platform) we may void any Transaction resulting from or deriving from a Manifest Error, such that the result is the same as if it had never been made; and/or
- (c) Not take any action at all.

16.3 We may take any reasonable steps for any trades executed at prices resulting from Manifest Errors (as defined herein), such as computer errors, misquotes or omissions, or at prices that are clearly at odds with the fair market prices. Acting reasonably and in good faith, we may take the following actions to trades based on a

Manifest Error:

- (a) Void the trade;
- (b) Close the trade at the current market prices; or
- (c) Amend opening and/or closing price of the trade, as if it would have been executed in the absence of the Manifest Error.

16.4 We will not be liable to you for any loss, cost, claim, demand or expense that you suffer (including loss of profits or any indirect or consequential losses) resulting from a Manifest Error, including where the Manifest Error is made by any information source, commentator or official upon whom we reasonably rely, or from systematic or data errors, except to the extent that it is caused by our own fraud, willful default or gross negligence.

16.5 If a Manifest Error has occurred and we choose to exercise any of our rights under clause 16.3, and if you have received any monies from us in connection with the Manifest Error, those monies are due and payable to us with immediate effect, and you must return an equal sum to us without delay.

16.6 We reserve the right to refuse any trades placed by you that we judge to be clearly outside the prevailing market price such that they may be deemed non-market price transactions, whether due to Manifest Error or stale, incorrect or broken price feeds.

20. Forward Looking Earnings Statements

20.1 Every effort has been made to accurately represent our services and their potential on our online trading facility. Although the 'forex' industry is one of the few that has great potential in terms of earnings, there is no guarantee that you will earn any money or income at all using the techniques and ideas in or through the materials or products provided on or through our online trading facility. Do not interpret examples in these materials as a promise or guarantee of earnings. Such earning potential is at all times entirely dependent on the person using any of our services, products, ideas, and techniques. Our services are not to be construed as a "get rich scheme."

20.2 Any claims made can be verified upon request. This is in respect of actual earnings or examples of actual results. Your level of success in attaining the results that may be claimed in our materials depends on many factors, including, but not limited to, the time you devote to the services, programs, ideas, and techniques mentioned, as well as your financial situation, knowledge and experience, and various skills. All these differ according to individuals, and so we cannot, nor do we, guarantee your success or income level. We are not responsible for any of your actions.

20.3 It is possible that some of the materials or products provided on or through our online trading facility may contain information that includes, or is based upon, forward-looking earnings statements. Such forward-looking earnings statements give our expectations or forecasts of future events. These statements can be identified by the fact that they do not relate directly or strictly to either historical or current facts. Such statements may use words such as “anticipate,” “believe,” “estimate,” “expect,” and other words and terms of similar meaning in connection with a description of potential earnings or financial performance. They are solely intended to express our opinion of earnings potential and should not be interpreted as guarantees of future earnings or financial performance. We strongly recommend that you carefully analyze and not rely solely on our online trading facility, sales materials, or any other potential representations of earnings before making any financial decisions. We do not provide any guarantees regarding your financial outcomes or any similar commitments, and we are not responsible for any trading results.

If we believe that your trading behavior does not comply with our rules or conditions, we reserve the right to assess and review your trading knowledge and experience at any time and, at our discretion, limit or terminate your access to the online trading platform.

25.11 Consistency Between Financial Information and Account Activity

You represent, warrant, and undertake that all information provided to the Company regarding your identity, financial condition, income, assets, investment experience, trading experience, source of funds, source of wealth, risk tolerance, purpose of account usage, beneficial owner, ultimate controller, payment instruments, and payment channels is true, accurate, complete, current, and not misleading.

You further confirm that your deposit amounts, cumulative funding amounts, withdrawal amounts, trading volume, trading frequency, position sizes, overall account activity, payment instruments, payment channels, and fund flows shall be reasonably consistent with the identity information, financial condition, investment experience, risk tolerance, source of funds, and source of wealth disclosed by you to the Company.

If the Company considers that your account activity, funding volume, withdrawal requests, trading patterns, payment channels, or fund flows are inconsistent with the information, documents, financial condition, source of funds, source of wealth, investment capacity, or risk tolerance you have provided, or if the Company considers it necessary to conduct further verification of your account usage, the Company shall have the right to require you to provide supplementary documents or explanations and may restrict, suspend, or refuse the relevant services until the review has been completed.

If the account is reasonably determined by the Company to be a high-risk account, special-risk account, nominee account, unauthorized-operation account, third-party-controlled account, or any other abnormal account, the Company may take the relevant measures pursuant to Sections 24.4, 24.5, 47.7, 57, and Section 75.1(g).

Chapter 4: Terms of Service

26. Services Provided

26.1 Subject to the above registration and eligibility requirements, we hereby grant you a personal, revocable, non-exclusive, non-transferable and non-sub-licensable license (a "License") that is limited to the provisions of these Terms and Conditions to access and use our Services (including the use of our Online Trading Facility and any associated downloadable Software), all as described in further detail hereinafter.

26.2 Under these Terms, we will be dealing ("Services") with you as Principal.

26.3 As part of our Services, we will use reasonable commercial efforts to supply you with the informational and technical means to access and use our Online Trading Facility, and provide you with market access and trade execution services ("Transactions") in Forex Exchange CFD on a 'rolling spot' or 'swap' basis, in a twenty-four-hour mode of operation, from Sunday 22:05 GMT to Friday 21:50 GMT, except on official public holidays in the USA and Europe ("Dealing Hours"), subject to the relevant markets in London, the USA and/or Asia being open.

27. Execution of Orders

27.1 Unless expressly determined and stated "in the terms agreed upon by mutual consent of the Parties", we provide you with order reception and transmission services involving over-the-counter (OTC) financial instruments, such as spot forex, contracts for difference (CFDs) covering stocks, indices, precious metals, other financial instruments, or tradable commodities. These transactions may be executed through our online trading platform (the "Supported Financial Instruments"). Additionally, we may introduce additional services from time to time.

27.2 We will NOT advise you on the merits or suitability of any Transaction and/or Contracts entered into pursuant to these Terms and Conditions, nor will we manage or monitor your investments. You acknowledge that our execution of any Order on your behalf does not in any way imply that we have approved or recommended that Transaction or investment. For your information, we have set out various risk disclosures on our Online Trading Facility.

27.3 Unless expressly determined and stated "in the terms agreed upon by mutual consent of the Parties" we will execute transactions or contracts based on your instructions and place orders in accordance with our Execution of Orders (Clause 30.6). This policy may be revised from time to time and is incorporated into these terms as a reference, applying to all transactions and contracts between you and us. Furthermore, except for obligations required by applicable laws and regulations, this policy will not impose any additional liability on us.

28. Prices and Open Positions

28.1 We will provide you with "bid" and "ask" prices ("Price Quote(s)") in respect of financial instrument through our Online Trading Facility or, in those instances where we have agreed to do so, through our Dealing department. The Price Quotes that we quote are determined by us and usually represent a mark-up or mark-down on inter-bank dealing rates. Our fees and charges are set out on our Online Trading Facility.

28.2 Each quote available for trading or contracts is subject to a leverage ratio not exceeding the limit published or notified to you. We may adjust prices and leverage at any time due to market conditions or other factors, and different customers may be subject to different terms. Without prior notice, we may modify, revoke, or suspend quotes, or cease pricing for some or all financial instruments, and we have no obligation to provide an explanation.

28.3 Unless expressly determined and stated "in the terms agreed upon by mutual consent of the Parties", our Services are restricted to executing Transactions and/or Contracts in Supported financial instruments or Contracts via our Online Trading Facility.

29. Cryptocurrency

29.1 The Company reserves the sole discretion to determine whether to offer Contracts for Difference (CFDs) on cryptocurrencies on its online trading platform. Unless otherwise specified, any reference to cryptocurrencies in this Agreement refers to decentralized digital currencies or assets that are not issued by any central bank or issuing authority and whose unit generation and transfers are verified through cryptographic technology.

29.2 You acknowledge and accept that cryptocurrency trading occurs on decentralized digital exchanges that are not regulated. Before investing in cryptocurrency CFDs, you should fully understand the following:

- (a) These products have a complex structure, carry extremely high risks, and are often highly speculative;
- (b) These products may result in the total loss of your invested capital;
- (c) Cryptocurrencies and other virtual currencies experience significant price volatility, which may lead to substantial losses in a short period;
- (d) These products are not suitable for all investors. If you cannot bear the risk of losing your entire investment, you should not engage in such trading;
- (e) You should fully understand and comprehend the characteristics and risks of these products.

29.3 The Company prices its cryptocurrency products based on the underlying market, with quotations sourced from exchanges where the Company executes transactions. As cryptocurrency markets are decentralized and lack a unified central exchange, prices may vary across different markets.

29.4 You should be aware that, under certain circumstances, different miners within the cryptocurrency network may generate distinct forks, leading to a split in the blockchain and the creation of two independent chains. If such an event occurs and both chains continue to operate, the Company may, at its reasonable discretion, choose the chain with the majority consensus of the cryptocurrency network as the basis for transactions. In the event of a fork, the market may experience significant volatility, and we may suspend relevant trading activities until a more reliable market price can be established. Furthermore, we are under no obligation to provide prior notice of any potential blockchain forks. You are solely responsible for understanding the associated risks.

29.5 If a cryptocurrency is delisted or removed from trading by an exchange or ceases to be supported by the market, the corresponding CFD will be terminated immediately. If the Company is notified that a cryptocurrency CFD you hold has been delisted, removed from trading, or discontinued, the Company reserves the right to close your position immediately and is under no obligation to continue offering that product.

29.6 Your orders may be executed in whole or in part. In cases of market delays or increased volatility, the Company will endeavor to execute orders within a reasonable time. You acknowledge and accept that market prices may fluctuate between the time you place an order and its execution. Consequently, your order may be executed at a higher or lower price, and we are under no obligation to guarantee execution at the requested price.

29.7 For clarity, the Company does not own or control the underlying software protocols governing cryptocurrencies. These protocols enable cryptocurrency operations and facilitate their trading on our online platform. These underlying protocols are generally open-source and can be used, modified, and distributed by anyone. Accordingly, you acknowledge and agree that:

- (a) The Company is not responsible for the operation of these underlying protocols and makes no guarantees regarding their functionality, security, or availability;
- (b) The underlying protocols may undergo protocol forks, resulting in sudden changes in their operation, which may affect the value, functionality, or even the name of a cryptocurrency;

(c) In the event of a protocol fork, the Company may temporarily suspend transactions related to the affected cryptocurrency (with or without prior notice) and may, at its sole discretion:

- Reconfigure its systems accordingly; or
- Decide to cease support for the forked protocol entirely.

The Company may, at its discretion (but is not obligated to), adjust your account based on the circumstances of a fork. Such adjustments will be calculated by the Company and may involve applicable fees and taxes. We will handle such adjustments in good faith and with fairness, but we do not guarantee identical treatment with our counterparties or other market participants. You acknowledge and agree that the Company is not liable for any cryptocurrencies resulting from unsupported forked protocols.

29.8 Since blockchain technology is an independent, public, peer-to-peer network that is beyond the Company's control:

- (a) The Company is not responsible for any failures, errors, malfunctions, or incorrect transactions on any blockchain;
- (b) If a cryptocurrency transaction is revoked, modified, or unverified on the blockchain, you bear all associated risks and must comply with applicable laws.

The Company makes no express or implied representations or warranties regarding the functionality or security of blockchain technology and does not endorse, manage, or ensure the performance or security of any blockchain.

29.9 You acknowledge and agree that our online trading platform operates independently of any exchange, and the Company is not obligated to provide specific prices or align with any exchange price trends. Additionally, you should be aware that:

- (a) Exchange prices may differ from our quoted prices, and we are not obligated to offer the same prices or quotations as any exchange;
- (b) In determining trade prices, we may reference quotations on our platform or prices accepted in executed transactions;
- (c) We may, at our sole discretion (but are not obligated to), disregard certain prices for specific time periods, such as pre-market, post-market, or during extreme intraday price fluctuations, to maintain pricing fairness;
- (d) If we determine that a short-term price spike or distortion has occurred in the market, our prices may differ from those of other exchanges, and you should acknowledge this risk.

When engaging in cryptocurrency CFD trading, you unconditionally and irrevocably agree to accept the buy and sell quotes on our trading platform, which shall be deemed final and binding.

29.10 Without our prior written consent, we reserve the right to:

- (a) Prohibit you from buying or selling cryptocurrency CFDs on our trading platform or closing any open positions;
- (b) Decline order execution under the following circumstances:
 - (i) The order violates applicable laws, regulations, or trading rules;
 - (ii) The trading market conditions are abnormal;
 - (iii) There is evidence of market manipulation, trading suspension, or early market closure;
 - (iv) Liquidity providers fail to provide liquidity.

29.11 In light of the unpredictability, complexity, and volatility of the cryptocurrency trading environment, the Company reserves the right to impose restrictions on such financial instruments to protect clients' best interests and mitigate trading risks. Specifically, we may impose the following restrictions on certain products:

- (a) Buy-only (Unshortable);
- (b) Sell-only (Unlongable);
- (c) Close-only;
- (d) Complete trading suspension.

Additionally, the maximum exposure for clients holding cryptocurrency CFDs is capped at USD 1 million per client or associated account group. Associated accounts refer to accounts with matching registration and/or trading data, such as the same IP address, device, or other identifying information. In such cases, the Company reserves the right to cancel or void any trades exceeding this exposure limit and is not liable for any consequences arising from such cancellations or voided orders.

29.12 The Company further reserves the right to modify margin requirements for cryptocurrency CFDs at any time at its sole discretion.

29.13 If we detect any abuse, fraud, manipulation, cashback arbitrage, wash trading, or other violations or fraudulent activities related to cryptocurrency CFD trading, we reserve the right to:

- (a) Charge additional administrative fees or costs to the relevant client;
- (b) Immediately close the client's trading account and/or cancel all violating transactions;
- (c) Deduct all profits or losses related to such transactions from the client's account.

29.14 When trading cryptocurrency CFDs, you should fully understand the characteristics and associated risks of such assets and acknowledge that such trading may not be suitable for all investors.

30. Order Execution and Platform Policies

30.1 All trade instructions must be submitted electronically through our online trading platform unless otherwise expressly agreed. At our sole discretion, we may accept instructions submitted through an authorized agent (Clause 25.8); however, trade instructions or orders shall only take effect once they have been received and confirmed by us.

Note: Instructions related to wash trades or market manipulation shall not be executed under this Agreement.

30.2 Under no circumstances are we obligated to accept your instructions. If we decide, at our sole discretion, to reject all or part of your trade instructions or orders, we are not required to provide reasons and shall not be liable for any resulting losses. Furthermore, if your instruction cannot be processed for any reason (including but not limited to the failure of our online trading platform to receive the instruction), such instruction shall be deemed as not received.

We reserve the right to refuse to execute any trade or contract, including but not limited to the following circumstances:

- (a) The trade is conducted outside market trading hours;
- (b) The trade quantity exceeds or falls below the maximum/minimum trading volume set by us;
- (c) Your margin balance is insufficient to support the trade or contract;
- (d) The trade or contract price is based on an obvious error;
- (e) We determine that the trade or contract violates this Agreement or any applicable laws/regulatory requirements.

30.3 Once your trade instruction has been confirmed, it shall be considered legally binding.

30.4 You may only request to cancel or revoke an instruction if it has not yet been executed by us. Once the instruction has been submitted and executed on your behalf, it may not be canceled, revoked, or modified unless we provide written consent.

30.5 We may also, based on your disclosed or verified financial status, Source of Funds, Source of Wealth, investment experience, risk tolerance, and historical account activity, impose restrictions or adjustments on your trading volume, position size, leverage, product access, or other trading conditions, including but not limited to:

- (a) Controls on the maximum and minimum order amounts;
- (b) Controls on overall risk exposure;
- (c) Price range restrictions for submitted orders (e.g., we may refuse to execute orders that significantly deviate from market prices);
- (d) Risk management restrictions on electronic trading services (e.g., authentication requirements to ensure that orders are submitted by authorized users);
- (e) Any limitations required by applicable laws, regulations, or regulatory authorities.
- (f) Any representation, warranty, information, document, declaration, or explanation made or provided by you to us at any time is materially false, inaccurate, incomplete, misleading, outdated, unverifiable, or you fail to provide, within the timeframe specified by us, any identity verification documents, Source of Funds, Source of Wealth, financial status information, purpose of account usage, trading experience, risk tolerance information, or other documents or explanations reasonably required by us for risk review purposes.

We also reserve the right to cancel or refuse to execute a high volume of orders generated in a short period or to deem all or part of a client's cumulative orders invalid if they exceed the permitted maximum trading volume.

30.6 Order Execution Policy: We may execute your orders at different execution venues, including but not limited to public exchanges, Over-The-Counter (OTC) markets, third-party liquidity providers.

Slippage, order delays, or execution rejections may occur in cases of market illiquidity, high volatility, technical failures, exchange or liquidity provider restrictions, or market gaps. We are not liable for any losses resulting from order delays or execution rejections but will make reasonable efforts to provide best execution.

If you provide specific instructions, they may impact our ability to execute trades at the best available price, and your trade may not be fully covered by the "Best Execution and Order Execution Policy." We recommend that you periodically review the latest version of the Order Execution Policy and ensure that your trading approach aligns with your investment objectives and risk tolerance. Your continued trading will be considered acceptance of this policy.

30.7 We may, under reasonable circumstances, require you to confirm certain trade instructions, especially for critical operations such as account closure or fund withdrawals. You must ensure that we have your most up-to-date email address and promptly notify us if you do not receive a confirmation or if any confirmation contains errors.

30.8 We will fulfill transactions, payments, asset transfers, or other deliveries as required by the trade or contract and in accordance with your instructions. If you fail to provide the necessary instructions or information in a timely manner, we may take appropriate action, including canceling the transaction or implementing protective measures at our discretion.

30.9 We may, at our discretion, execute trades through intermediary brokers, which may be affiliated or unaffiliated entities and may not be regulated by the South Africa Financial Sector Conduct Authority, South Africa (FSCA). Neither we, nor our directors, employees, or agents, are responsible for any acts or omissions of such intermediary brokers or for any selection made by you.

30.10 We reserve the right to impose limits on your open positions and/or restrict you to closing trades only. Additionally, we may liquidate part or all of your open positions to ensure compliance with our position limits.

30.11 Any profit or loss arising from exchange rate fluctuations in relation to any trade or contract shall be solely borne by you and remain your responsibility.

30.12 Under applicable laws, rules, or regulations, we may be required to publicly disclose certain trades or contracts. You acknowledge and agree that ownership of such transaction-related information belongs to us, and you waive any confidentiality obligations regarding reasonable disclosures made by us.

30.13 If you do not provide instructions to settle any open trade or contract by the end of the trading day, we have the right (but not the obligation) to roll over such contracts to the next trading day ("rollover"), as detailed in Clause 36.

31. Electronic Trading Terms

31.1 You acknowledge that the electronic trading services we provide through online trading software are subject to certain technical limitations. You understand that electronic communications may be affected by external factors, causing delays or failures in accurate and timely transmission. Consequently, any instructions issued by you or your authorized agent through our online trading software or via email will only be considered valid and legally binding upon our actual receipt and confirmation. We will record and confirm your transactions based on internal processes, and the mere transmission of a trading instruction does not constitute a binding contract between you and us.

31.2 As we do not control the operation of electricity supply, internet access, or any other electronic communication means, nor do we control the configuration or stability of client devices, we shall not be liable for any claims, losses, damages, costs, or expenses (including legal fees) resulting from these factors. We are also not responsible for any losses caused by communication or computer system failures, interruptions, or hacking incidents affecting your device. You assume all risks associated with internet-transmitted instructions and are solely responsible for their accuracy and legality. We will only execute a trade or contract upon confirming receipt of your order; the mere transmission of an order does not constitute a transaction, and a trade becomes binding only upon our formal acceptance.

31.3 Mobile trading technology carries risks, including duplicate instructions and quote delays, which arise from the nature of mobile trading itself. The prices displayed on the mobile platform are for reference only and may not reflect actual execution prices. Our mobile platform transmits data over public communication networks, and we are not responsible for trade delays or failures due to network congestion, weak mobile signals, battery depletion, or other factors beyond our control. Additionally, we do not guarantee that all functions of online trading software will be compatible with mobile devices.

31.4 You are responsible for safeguarding your username and password ("Access Codes") to prevent unauthorized third-party access to your online trading software. If you fail to protect your Access Credentials and unauthorized access, trading instructions, or suspicious activities occur, you must immediately notify us and assume all associated risks and liabilities. We are not liable for any resulting transactions, even if they occur due to an error. Furthermore, you must ensure that your computer terminal is not left unattended while logged into our trading software and must prevent any unauthorized individuals from accessing it.

31.5 Unless explicitly agreed otherwise, the prices displayed on our online trading software are for reference only and are subject to change at any time. The actual execution price is based on the price stated in the trade confirmation or settlement confirmation we issue after you place an order. However, in certain cases, the final execution price may differ from the price displayed at the time of order placement. If a trade is executed based on an obvious pricing error, we reserve the right to amend or cancel the transaction or contract at our sole discretion.

31.6 We may impose limits on the total number and value of transactions or contracts you can conduct daily, adjusting them based on market conditions or our internal risk control policies.

31.7 The "Limit Order" function within our online trading software is subject to internet service availability and may be affected by trading volume limits, position constraints, or other applicable restrictions imposed by us (whether explicitly communicated to you or not). We do not guarantee that an order will be executed when the limit price is reached.

31.8 You must ensure that your computer system can access and use our online trading software and that it meets our technical requirements. Additionally, you must secure stable connectivity through your telecommunications or internet service provider. If you access our platform via a third-party server or intermediary, we do not guarantee or assume responsibility for the availability, stability, or related arrangements of such third-party services.

31.9 You are responsible for installing and regularly updating virus detection or scanning software as required by us, ensuring their proper operation. If you detect significant defects, malfunctions, or viruses in your computer system or our trading software, you must notify us immediately and cease using the software until we grant approval for resumption.

31.10 If you obtain any data, information, or software beyond the scope permitted under this agreement, you must notify us in writing immediately and refrain from using, transmitting, or exploiting such data, information, or software in any manner.

31.11 If you detect significant defects, malfunctions, or viruses in your computer system or our trading software, you must immediately notify us and cease using the trading software until we provide approval for resumption.

31.12 We or our authorized licensors own all intellectual property rights related to our online trading software (whether registered or not). You may not use, copy, transfer, or distribute such intellectual property in any manner, nor provide the same or similar software or systems to any third party.

31.13 We are not liable for any losses, liabilities, or costs resulting from your unauthorized use of our online trading software. If any person uses your Access Codes (username and/or password) without authorization, causing damages, you shall indemnify us immediately and hold us harmless against all losses, liabilities, judgments, lawsuits, actions, proceedings, claims, damages, or costs incurred.

31.14 Without prejudice to other provisions of this agreement, we may suspend or permanently revoke your access to the online trading software under the following circumstances:

- (a) General Circumstances: We may suspend or permanently revoke access after sending you a notice;
- (b) Other Circumstances: We may immediately suspend or revoke access without prior notice if any of the following occur, including but not limited to:
- Failure to comply with our access regulations;
 - Violation of any terms of this agreement;
 - Events of default;
 - Network issues;
 - Power supply failures;
 - System maintenance;
 - Perceived or actual security breaches related to the use of online trading software;
 - Changes required by regulatory authorities, market conditions, or legal requirements;
 - Any other relevant provisions in this agreement related to the operation of our online trading software.

In such cases, we may immediately limit, revoke, or suspend your access, in whole or in part.

31.15 If we terminate or revoke your access to the online trading software, you must immediately cease using all hardware, software, system files, and other related documents provided by us.

32. Electronic Trading Methods

32.1 Upon receiving the latest quotation provided through our online trading software, you may submit a trade request based on the given quote. Please note that the quotation is for reference only, and market conditions may cause the final execution price to differ. Your trade request will only be executed upon our confirmation and acceptance and does not constitute a commitment from us to execute the trade at a specific price.

32.2 We will respond to your trade request (acceptance or rejection).

32.3 If your account is subject to credit limitations, we are not obligated to provide a trade response and will disclose the relevant restrictions to you.

32.4 You acknowledge and agree that by submitting a trade request through our online trading software, you accept the applicable trading terms or contract terms and agree to execute the trade based on our response. If a network issue prevents you from receiving a trade response, please use alternative means to verify the trade status. Additionally, you are fully responsible for all trade requests submitted through your account. We are not obligated to verify the identity of individuals accessing your account codes (such as login name and password), and any such trade request shall be deemed authorized by you and legally binding.

33. Trade Confirmation and Account Reporting

Upon successful execution of a trade, we will promptly publish a trade confirmation through our online trading software. Even if such confirmation is not published, the trade remains valid. Generally, trade confirmations are provided immediately after execution.

If you have any objections to the trade confirmation, you must submit a written request (including email) immediately and no later than the end of the next business day following the confirmation date. Failure to dispute within this period will render the confirmation final and binding. If you believe a trade has been executed or a contract has been entered into but have not received confirmation, you must notify us immediately for verification. If you fail to do so and we have no corresponding trade record, we have the right to deem such trade or contract non-existent.

34. Consent to Receive Electronic Trade Confirmations and Account Statements

34.1 You consent to receive all account information, settlement, and trade confirmations via the internet and acknowledge that instructions or directives sent via email or other electronic means shall serve as evidence of such directives. You will be able to access our online trading software using your credentials and customize reports according to your needs, including detailed trade or contract information, daily, weekly, and monthly trading reports, and market information. Account information is generally updated periodically during trading hours and, in any case, no later than 24 hours after a trading event.

34.2 Once a trade confirmation is published, it is considered the official settlement and confirmation of the trade and serves as the final record of account activity. This includes trade confirmation numbers, exchange rates, trade amounts, profit and loss statements, current positions, and pending orders.

34.3 If you no longer wish to communicate electronically, you must notify us and revoke your consent. If you do not wish to communicate electronically at all, you must inform us when applying for an account. However, if you revoke consent, we may, at our discretion, restrict or terminate your access to our online trading software.

34.4 All communications conducted electronically shall be deemed to satisfy any legal requirements for written documentation and signed agreements, provided that applicable laws, rules, and/or regulations permit. Furthermore, you waive any rights or requirements under applicable laws, rules, and/or regulations that necessitate the use of original (non-electronic) signatures or paper documents, except where mandatory legal provisions dictate otherwise.

35. Recording and Archiving

35.1 Your telephone calls, electronic messages, emails, online chats, meetings, and other communications may be recorded and archived. We reserve the right to use such records as the final evidence of our transactions and communications with you. You agree that we may provide such records as evidence to any regulatory, legal, or governmental authority as required and that these records may be used to resolve disputes related to you.

35.2 However, technical reasons may prevent us from recording or archiving communications, and such records may be deleted per our internal procedures. Therefore, you should not rely on these records being available.

36. Rollover and Offset

36.1 A rollover is the process of extending the settlement date of an open trade (i.e., the agreed-upon trade settlement date). The foreign exchange market allows two business days to settle all spot transactions, meaning the physical delivery of currencies. In margin trading, no actual delivery occurs; therefore, all open positions must be closed at the end of each day (22:00 GMT) and reopened on the next trading day. This strategy is known as a rollover.

36.2 A rollover is conducted through a swap agreement and may result in a cost or gain. We do not close and reopen open positions but instead apply an overnight financing charge (the "rollover fee") to each overnight position based on the prevailing interbank lending rate. Per market practice, 02:00 GMT is considered the start and end of a forex trading day, meaning all trades still open at 22:00 GMT are rolled over and considered overnight positions. However, if you open a trade at 21:59 GMT, it will not be immediately rolled over; whereas if you open a trade at 22:00 GMT, it will be booked into your account and will generate a corresponding credit or debit adjustment, directly affecting your equity balance.

36.3 The rollover fee we charge will be published on our online trading software. We will endeavor to deduct the rollover fee from your account balance. If we cannot deduct the fee due to insufficient available funds, we reserve the right to partially or fully close your open positions per our "Order Execution Policy" (Clause 30.6). You are responsible for promptly paying all applicable rollover fees, even if your deposited margin has incurred losses.

36.4 If we do not receive your explicit and timely instructions, we reserve the right to offset all or part of your positions or to conduct payments and collections on your behalf in a manner and under terms we deem reasonable.

37. Corporate Events and Actions

37.1 When a Corporate Action (as defined in Clause 37.2) occurs for a financial instrument, the Company will take appropriate measures to adjust your trading account to reflect the impact of such action on your open positions. These adjustments aim to preserve economic equivalence and protect your rights under the relevant trades or contracts. On the effective date of the Corporate Action (i.e., the ex-dividend/ex-rights date for the affected instrument), the Company may:

- (a) Adjust the size, value, and/or quantity of orders as necessary to maintain positions economically equivalent to your open contracts;
- (b) Notify you of impending Corporate Actions and related adjustments through available channels, including but not limited to the Company's website;
- (c) Endeavor to adjust pending orders (e.g., stop-loss or take-profit orders) to preserve economic equivalence prior to the Corporate Action's effective date;
- (d) In cases of reverse stock splits or similar actions that reduce your shareholding below the system's minimum tradable unit, adjust your positions to the nearest allowable quantity and reflect any value changes as cash adjustments in your account.

37.2 If the Company is the owner of the relevant financial instrument, adjustment methods may differ; however, the Company will use reasonable efforts to maintain economic equivalence and protect your interests.

37.3 Corporate Actions under Clause 37.1 include, but are not limited to:

- (a) New share issuance, capital increases, or dividends: Additional shares, capital expansions, warrants, or dividends issued by the underlying company, resulting in market value dilution;
- (b) Stock splits or reverse splits: Changes in outstanding shares affecting share price (e.g., a 1:2 stock split converts 1 share into 2, doubling holdings while maintaining market capitalization). Positions may consolidate into a single transaction record on the trading terminal without altering economic equivalence;

- (c) Cash dividends: Cash distributions by the underlying company will be reflected in your account as market-aligned adjustments based on your holdings;
- (d) Delisting or default: If a financial instrument is delisted or declared bankrupt, the Company may suspend or terminate trading and liquidate assets at its discretion. Bankruptcy filings without formal liquidation proceedings will not trigger immediate action;
- (e) Special dividends: One-time dividends causing market value dilution/concentration, treated as cash adjustments in your account.

Chapter 5: Social Trading Community

This chapter sets forth the fundamental principles and terms applicable when using the Social Trading Community platform. The terms in this chapter apply to all sections referenced in this agreement and to all our services.

38. Social Trading Community Platform

38.1 Our Social Trading Community platform provides functionalities that allow interaction with other traders, following and copying their trades or strategies. These functionalities are referred to as "Social Trading Community Features." The Social Trading Community Features include account information, trading history, risk profiles, and other information related to strategy providers or their strategies.

38.2 The Social Trading Community allows clients ("Followers") to copy trades from strategy providers ("Strategy Providers"). Upon accepting and following a strategy, the Follower authorizes us to automatically copy all trades from the Strategy Provider's account to the Follower's account without prior consultation, consent, or approval.

39. Followers

39.1 When following a Strategy Provider's strategy, Followers agree to the following terms:

- (a) Authorize and instruct the Strategy Provider to operate on their behalf according to the chosen strategy in a manner deemed appropriate by the Strategy Provider;
- (b) Authorize the Company to perform all necessary actions on the Follower's behalf to complete the strategy subscription. These actions include, but are not limited to, executing trades based on the Strategy Provider's operations, such as opening positions, closing positions, suspending new positions, closing all positions, and exiting the strategy subscription. The Company will have all necessary systems in place to facilitate these operations and ensure their integrity. However, Followers agree that the Company shall not be held liable for any financial losses that may directly or indirectly affect system performance, including but not limited to internet connection failures, data center malfunctions, server outages, and third-party software vulnerabilities;
- (c) The chosen strategy will be adjusted based on an automatic scaling model. The lot size calculation will consider the Strategy Provider's equity and leverage and will be adjusted according to the Follower's available social trading funds;
- (d) Authorize and instruct the Company to transfer the Strategy Provider's applicable fees (including but not limited to subscription fees, management fees, and performance fees) from the Follower's account to the Strategy Provider's designated account to pay the fees due to the Strategy Provider.

39.2 Followers acknowledge and accept that following a Strategy Provider's strategy constitutes acceptance of the applicable fee structure.

39.3 Followers understand and accept that if their available social trading funds or margin is insufficient, they may not successfully copy the Strategy Provider's trades. The system will determine whether to execute copied trades based on the Follower's available funds, and some trades may not be copied.

39.4 Followers acknowledge and accept that there may be price fluctuations between the time they select to follow a specific strategy and the time they begin following that strategy.

39.5 Followers acknowledge and accept that if there are open trades available for copying, the Company will execute them at the best available market price rather than the original entry price of the Strategy Provider.

If the copied trade involves a market that is closed at the time, the system will place a pending order for the Follower, which will be executed at the market price upon reopening. Since market prices may fluctuate, the actual execution price for the Follower may differ from the Strategy Provider's original entry price.

39.6 If Followers choose to copy only new trades:

- (a) The Company will execute the same trade as soon as possible after the Strategy Provider's execution, but the price received by the Follower will be the current market price, which may differ from the Strategy Provider's price due to factors such as market volatility, account type, and spreads;
- (b) All instructions and operations related to copied trades will automatically reflect in the Follower's account, including stop loss, take profit, and trade closure actions.

39.7 The Company reserves the absolute right to close all open trades of a Strategy Provider at its discretion and may simultaneously close relevant positions in Followers' accounts. If a Strategy Provider's account is deleted, all Followers' open positions will be closed, and the related social trading subscriptions will be automatically terminated without prior notice.

39.8 Followers understand and agree that all information provided by Strategy Providers (including past performance, risk scores, statistical data, performance data, minimum investment requirements, leverage usage, and other features) is for reference only and does not require Company approval. The Company does not guarantee the accuracy of such information but reserves the right to modify or remove a strategy at any time. Additionally, the actual execution of a strategy may differ from its description, and once a Follower chooses to follow a strategy, they unconditionally accept the related information and cannot withdraw their acceptance.

39.9 Followers acknowledge and accept that the Company bears no liability for any losses incurred due to the operation of the Social Trading Community. Furthermore, Followers understand that due to the mechanics of social trading, their trading activity may result in a total loss of their account funds, even exceeding the losses incurred by the Strategy Provider.

39.10 Followers may manually close any copied trade in their account at any time. They acknowledge and accept that this action may lead to significant differences from the Strategy Provider's results.

39.11 Followers may unsubscribe from a Strategy Provider and stop copying their trades at any time. However, any outstanding fees incurred during the subscription period (including but not limited to performance fees) must still be settled.

40. Strategy Providers

40.1 The Company reserves the right to reject or block the visibility of any strategy at its discretion for reasons including but not limited to:

(a) Strategy content does not comply with regulations:

- The strategy description is inconsistent with the terms of this agreement or violates any laws and regulations related to the business relationship between the Company and the Strategy Provider;
- The strategy description contains illegal, unethical content, or personal information unrelated to the strategy;
- The strategy name or image is misleading, contains offensive content, racial or religious discrimination, illegal activities, violates moral or ethical standards, involves minors, or contains other inappropriate content;
- The strategy description lacks consistency, contains false or misleading information, or infringes third-party rights (including but not limited to trademarks and other intellectual property rights).

(b) Concerns about the suitability of the strategy for investment:

- The strategy's performance does not align with the Company's capital allocation standards;

- The frequency and timing of trades may negatively impact Followers;
- Other circumstances deemed not in the best interests of Followers by the Company.

The Company has full discretion to determine whether a strategy may be publicly visible and reserves the right to prevent public display based on the above factors.

40.2 The Company reserves the absolute right to close any or all open positions of a Strategy Provider at its discretion.

41. Disclaimer on Social Trading

Our company does not provide investment advice, investment management, financial planning, tax advice, or any related professional opinions. Any interpretation or information regarding social trading or its performance does not constitute investment advice and should not be considered as such. This information is for reference purposes only. Additionally, in accordance with applicable laws and regulatory provisions, our company is not responsible for any losses resulting from the following:

- (a) Operations executed by our company based on any instructions from the follower;
- (b) Decisions or actions taken by the strategy provider whom the follower chooses to follow.

42. Major Risks of Social Trading

42.1 Before selecting a social trading strategy, followers should carefully consider their financial situation, including their capital tolerance. Social trading is highly speculative, and the resulting losses may exceed the anticipated amount. Associated risks include, but are not limited to:

- (a) If the amount copied in a trade is below the minimum trade volume threshold, the trade will not be executed;
- (b) Social trading involves an automated execution mechanism where all trades are automatically opened and closed within the follower's account without follower's manual operation or prior approval;
- (c) Changes made by the strategy provider to their account (such as changing account type, leverage, or capital size) may affect trading conditions, leading to discrepancies between the follower's actual trading results and those of the strategy provider. Such discrepancies may arise due to factors such as spreads, swap fees, allocation ratios, execution timing, and minimum trade volume thresholds.

42.2 Past performance, risk ratings, portfolios, and other information available on this platform do not guarantee future performance. Our company does not ensure that followers will achieve the same profits or incur the same losses as the strategy provider. Furthermore, our company does not guarantee that the risk ratings of strategy providers accurately reflect the actual risk level of their strategies.

42.3 The social trading platform provided by our company offers various features, which may be adjusted, removed, or modified at any time without prior notice or justification.

42.4 Both strategy providers and followers must acknowledge and accept that the applicability of platform features may be subject to regional legal and regulatory restrictions.

Chapter 6: Margin Deposits, Collateral, and Payments

43. Margin and Collateral

43.1 Margin: The funds you must deposit with us to execute trades or contracts. Before executing any trade or contract, you must ensure that your account has sufficient margin to meet the margin requirements for the position. If your margin falls below the required level, you will be unable to open new positions. Margin requirements must be maintained at all times until the position is closed and may increase or decrease depending on market conditions.

43.2 Contingent Liability: If we execute or arrange a trade or contract (e.g., a Contract for Difference (CFD)), you should be aware that due to the nature of such trades or contracts, your account funds must be sufficient to maintain margin levels to prevent forced liquidation. If market fluctuations cause your account balance to drop below the required margin level, you may need to add additional funds to avoid automatic position liquidation.

43.3 Margin Call Notification: You are required to replenish any funds as per our notification, including but not limited to:

- (a) Adding additional funds when your account margin is insufficient to maintain positions and prevent forced liquidation;
- (b) Ensuring that your account has sufficient funds to avoid insufficient available funds impacting trade operations;
- (c) Depositing any funds related to transactions, initial margin, or variable margin to fulfill your trading obligations.

Our online trading platform employs automated risk monitoring, margin, and stop-out mechanisms to ensure the efficient utilization of available margin. Unless stated otherwise, we will apply initial margin, maintenance margin, or forced margin call mechanisms based on market conditions, liquidity needs, or regulatory requirements, and announce the latest applicable levels on our online trading platform.

43.4 Margin Requirements: We may adjust margin requirements at any time. Any margin payment requests must be met within the specified time frame, or your positions may be forcibly closed. Margin requirements may vary depending on the financial instrument. Please refer to our website for applicable margin requirements for financial instruments.

43.5 Margin Requirements During Market Volatility: During periods of market volatility, the company may temporarily impose higher margin requirements for new orders or all financial instruments (compared to the normal margin requirements of client accounts). This may occur in circumstances such as:

- (a) Before the market closes on Fridays;
- (b) Before the closure of specific or all forex markets;
- (c) Prior to major market announcements, such as the U.S. Department of Labor's Non-Farm Payroll (NFP) report;
- (d) Any anticipated market conditions or disruptions before and after market events.

Increases in margin requirements may affect trade orders or execution and may be implemented without prior notice.

43.6 Forms of Margin: Margin refers to funds deposited into your trading account that can be used to maintain open and existing positions. Unless otherwise specified, margin must be deposited in cash and must maintain sufficient available balance to meet margin requirements. Our company only accepts available funds in the trading account as margin. Unless otherwise decided, we do not accept other financial instruments (such as stocks or bonds) or illiquid assets as collateral.

43.7 Failure to Meet Margin Call Requirements: You are responsible for maintaining proper communication with us to ensure timely receipt and acknowledgment of margin-related information. You must promptly settle all due payments to fulfill trading or contractual obligations or deposit funds as instructed by us to execute transactions or contracts made with you or third parties. If you fail to promptly supplement margin, deposit funds, or meet other payment obligations, resulting in your account's available funds falling below the forced liquidation level, we reserve the right to liquidate some or all of your positions without prior notice and use the proceeds to settle outstanding amounts.

43.8 Negative Balance Protection: The negative balance protection mechanism ensures that a client's trading account will not bear liabilities exceeding its available funds. Our company applies negative balance protection to all leveraged trading products associated with the trading account, including but not limited to CFDs, leveraged forex, and precious metals, ensuring that a client's maximum loss does not exceed their account funds.

Leveraged financial instruments involve high risk and may result in significant capital losses. Therefore, Mega implements a negative balance protection mechanism to ensure that all losses incurred from leveraged trading products are limited to the client's account funds. This means that clients are not required to pay additional amounts exceeding their account balance.

However, we reserve the right to cancel or adjust the negative balance protection mechanism in the following special circumstances:

(a) Market Abuse

Including but not limited to arbitrage trading based on market volatility, exploiting technical delays, insider trading, or market manipulation.

(b) Exceptional Market Conditions

Such as extreme market fluctuations (e.g., central bank interventions, policy changes, black swan events) leading to severe price deviations that affect the normal operation of the forced liquidation mechanism.

(c) Available Funds in Other Accounts

If, under condition (a), there are still unused funds in other accounts on our platform sufficient to partially or fully offset the negative balance, we reserve the right to deduct the corresponding amount from such accounts to settle the outstanding liability (i.e., negative balance).

(d) Abuse of Negative Balance Protection During Major News Events

Where the Company reasonably determines that a Client's Account, any Related Account, or any related trading activity involves or is likely to involve abnormal trading during major news events, News Event Trading Abuse, temporary account opening, temporary funding, fully or substantially fully margined positions, abnormally increased trading volumes, excessive leverage, cross-account or cross-platform hedging, the deliberate use of minimal capital to create disproportionate market exposure, or any attempt to exploit the Negative Balance Protection mechanism, Stop-Out mechanism, quotation delays, market gaps, insufficient liquidity, or any other market conditions so as to transfer trading losses to the Company or create a manifest imbalance between risk assumed and potential reward, the Company reserves the right, at its sole discretion, to cancel, adjust, or disapply the Negative Balance Protection mechanism. The Company may further conduct a consolidated review of the relevant Account and any Related Accounts, and may apply netting, set-off, freeze, withhold, or refuse the return of any funds or amounts relating thereto.

The foregoing shall be without prejudice to the Company's right to charge the relevant fees pursuant to Clause 47.7, or to take any other actions available under Clauses 51.6, 56.15, 57, 75, and 76 of this Agreement.

Our company retains the final decision-making authority and may adjust the negative balance protection mechanism according to applicable regulations and risk policies.

44. Margin Call Policy

44.1 You agree that our online trading system is equipped with automated risk monitoring, margin call, and forced liquidation mechanisms to monitor the overall usage of your available collateral, ensuring compliance with our current trading and funding requirements. Through the system's automated risk monitoring features, we will execute margin call notifications or implement forced liquidation mechanisms based on the applicable margin call or forced liquidation standards at the appropriate times.

44.2 The margin call policy stipulates that your maximum potential risk is your account's equity. If your account equity falls below 100% of the margin required to maintain your existing open positions, you will receive a margin call notification. This is a warning message alerting you that the funds in your account may not be sufficient to support your open positions. In this case, you may not be able to open new positions and will need to top up funds to maintain your existing positions.

44.3 Clients are solely and independently responsible for monitoring their account activity, including but not limited to monitoring changes in account equity to ensure that open positions do not trigger margin call levels.

44.4 Despite any other provisions in this agreement or other documents, we are not obliged to notify you via a margin call notification regarding your equity, margin cover, or margin requirement. Clients must proactively monitor their account funds.

44.5 The "Stop-out Level" refers to when your account equity falls below 50% of the margin required to maintain open positions. At this point, the system will automatically begin closing positions, starting with the least profitable ones, to ensure the account does not enter a negative balance state. For hedged positions, forced liquidation will apply if the account enters a negative equity zone, meaning that when the overall account equity becomes negative, the system will automatically trigger the liquidation process.

44.6 In certain cases, such as when a client has set a "stop-loss order" or "limit order," the stop-loss or limit order will be executed first when the market price hits the order price or when a gap (market price skipping over the set price) occurs. Please note that in the case of a market gap, the stop-loss order will execute at the current market price and may not be executed at the original set price. A limit order may fail to execute if the market price does not return to the set price range.

44.7 When a margin call or forced liquidation is triggered, its execution will take precedence over other order types, including but not limited to market orders, limit orders, stop-loss orders, and other pending orders.

45. Security

45.1 Collateral and General Lien Rights: All assets you own or any assets that we may hold, control, or record on our platform for any purpose may be used as collateral to fulfill your obligations and shall be subject to general offset rights. Our collateral rights apply to all of your accounts, regardless of the number, and may be exercised without notice to you. Furthermore, we may, at our discretion, transfer any of your assets between accounts or offset and settle your assets with other accounts. Without affecting any of our other rights, we may at any time, without prior notice, immediately deduct assets from your account to settle your obligations (whether existing or future). You shall not withdraw or replace collateral without our prior explicit written consent.

45.2 Collateral Obligations: As a continuing guarantee for the fulfillment of all obligations (whether actual or contingent, present or future), you irrevocably grant us a first-priority lien covering all of your current or future assets (whether held by us or third parties). We have the right to offset these assets without prior notice to you in order to satisfy your collateral obligations to us. Furthermore, we shall not be held liable for any loss arising from these offset actions. You further agree to provide any necessary reasonable assistance to ensure the effectiveness of our collateral rights, including but not limited to providing legal guarantees for margin or ensuring the fulfillment of collateral obligations to allow us to exercise relevant rights or comply with market regulatory requirements.

45.3 Default Offsetting: In the event of a default or termination of this agreement, we have the right to offset the remaining margin balance with your obligations (within our reasonable discretion). In carrying out such offset, we will consider the net settlement terms applicable under this agreement.

45.4 Collateral Restrictions: You agree not to assign or establish other collateral rights on the collateral amounts held in your accounts on our platform unless such collateral rights are required by law or market rules.

45.5 Lien Rights: You agree that, within the scope of the margin you provide under these terms and conditions, our obligations and yours may constitute "financial collateral," forming a "financial collateral arrangement." This allows us or a third party to set a lien over margin in excess of your obligations to meet our or market requirements (including but not limited to obligations arising from your positions).

45.6 Drawdown Rights: You further agree that within the margin you provide, our obligations and yours may constitute "financial collateral" and form a "financial collateral arrangement," thus we have the right to drawdown any such financial collateral to fulfill our obligations to you. For this purpose, you agree that when collateral rights are enforced, any drawn financial collateral will be valued in a commercially reasonable manner.

45.7 General Lien: Without affecting any of our other rights, under applicable laws, rules, or regulations, we have a general lien over all assets you provide, including but not limited to assets in your accounts, assets registered on our platform, and the value of your open positions. We may, at our discretion, transfer assets between your accounts or merge or offset your account assets. Additionally, we have the right, without prior notice, to convert any of your assets into other currencies or deduct your assets to settle any outstanding obligations (whether current or future) you owe us.

Chapter 7: Commissions, Fees, and Charges

46. Commissions, Fees, and Charges

46.1 You shall pay us the relevant commissions and fees (including but not limited to spreads, transaction fees, interest, and other charges) (hereinafter collectively referred to as "Commissions and Fees"). The amounts of such commissions and fees shall be determined based on the content we notify you from time to time or as published on our online trading platform. By accepting these terms and conditions, you confirm that you have read, understood, and agreed to the contents published on the "Spreads and Terms Details" page, which outlines the calculation methods and applicable conditions for all relevant commissions and fees.

46.2 We reserve the right to modify, change, delete, or add commissions and fees at any time at our sole discretion. When we make any changes to commissions and fees (hereinafter referred to as "Changes"), we will publish the relevant information on the online trading platform or notify you directly. Any such notifications will be deemed valid, and you are responsible for reviewing and regularly checking for potential changes. Continuing to use our online trading platform after such changes are published will be deemed as your acceptance and agreement to be bound by these changes. If you do not agree to these changes, you should immediately cease using our online trading platform and notify us in writing.

46.3 If external factors beyond our reasonable control cause changes, we have the right to modify the commissions and fees immediately without prior notice to you. Such situations may include, but are not limited to:

- (a) Changes in our relationship with counterparties leading to a change in cost structures;
- (b) Changes in the commissions and fees of exchanges, clearing institutions, information providers, or third-party service providers, which will be passed on to you.

47. Other Fees and Charges

47.1 In addition to the commissions, fees, and charges mentioned above, you shall pay any other fees and charges incurred from our provision of services, including but not limited to applicable value-added tax (if any), other taxes, and all other fees we incur related to any transaction and/or contract matters or the maintenance of client relationships.

47.2 Specifically, we have the right to require you to pay the following fees and/or expenses separately:

- (a) Additional expenses arising from our relationship with you as a client, such as phone, telegram, courier, and postage charges (if you request paper-based statements, transaction confirmations, or account reports that could have been provided electronically);
- (b) Any fees incurred due to your non-compliance, including but not limited to fees incurred for reminders, legal assistance, etc.;
- (c) Any fees we may incur in responding to inquiries from government agencies or other public bodies, including but not limited to providing testimony, forwarding transcripts and documentation (such fees will be determined at our discretion);
- (d) Administrative fees related to security deposits, and any costs related to collateral (if applicable), including insurance premiums;
- (e) Transaction fees arising from any irregular trading activities in your account;
- (f) Any fees arising from audit requirements (if you request audit certifications, etc.);
- (g) Swap/rollover fees;
- (h) Any fees incurred due to abusive/violating trading activities conducted by you or in collusion with other clients.

Regarding our legal relationship, when your account with us is terminated, if you have successfully executed a transaction with us, regardless of whether the execution was due to a technical or human error, we reserve the right to immediately revoke any profits/losses arising from such transaction and return the original deposit amount (minus any deposit and withdrawal fees) to the original deposit source.

Any such fees and/or expenses will be charged based on the actual payment amounts incurred as a fixed amount or based on a percentage or hourly rate corresponding to the services provided, with a mixed calculation method. We reserve the right to introduce new fees.

47.3 We (and/or affiliates) may receive commissions, mark-ups, or other fees from your transactions, which will not be separately displayed in the settlement or transaction statements. If you request in writing, we may, at our discretion, disclose the relevant amounts within a reasonable scope, but we reserve the right to refuse to provide this information.

47.4 If your registration or trading information (including but not limited to IP address) matches that of other clients, we have the right to take the following actions as deemed appropriate:

- (a) Immediately terminate the business relationship, i.e., close your account;
- (b) Charge account termination-related fees (if applicable), with a minimum amount of USD 10;
- (c) Charge a platform processing fee, up to 6% of the funds.
- (d) A platform transaction processing fee of USD 3 per lot will be charged for executed trades (or the equivalent amount converted into the client's account currency based on the prevailing exchange rate at the time).

This clause aims to prevent abusive activities, including but not limited to duplicate account registrations, collusive trading, or other violations.

47.5 If your account remains inactive for 90 consecutive days, and the account remains dormant, an additional monthly fee of USD 10 will be charged (according to Clause 60), provided that your account still has available funds. We reserve the right to modify the inactivity fee as needed.

47.6 Under specific market conditions or risk management requirements, we have the right to apply fair value adjustments (FVA) to general accounts to adjust the cost of positions. The application and calculation of FVA will depend on market conditions, the nature of the trades, liquidity, and other factors, as determined by our reasonable judgment.

47.7 Special Handling Fees, Administrative Fees for Risk Accounts, and Other Ancillary Charges

Without prejudice to any other rights, remedies, fee collection rights, or fund-handling rights of the Company under this Agreement, where a client account, related account, trading activity, deposit, withdrawal, refund, chargeback, account termination, identity verification, source of funds verification, source of wealth verification, KYC authentication, verification of the account's actual controller, or any other risk review matter involves improper trading activities, a high-risk account, a special-risk account, identity irregularities, fund irregularities, account irregularities, compliance reviews, or where the Company reasonably determines that risk, trading record, compliance, or administrative reviews are required, the Company shall have the right to charge the following fees to the relevant account:

- (a) Base Principal Handling Fee in Cases of Violations or High-Risk Circumstances

Where the Company reasonably believes that a client account, related account, or related trading activity involves or may involve improper trading activities, high-risk accounts, special-risk accounts, nominee accounts, non-genuine identity verification, unauthorized account operation, identity theft, account holding on behalf of another person, account lending, account leasing, third-party actual control, failed KYC authentication, irregular KYC documentation, insufficient or unverifiable proof of financial capacity, inability to reasonably explain the source of funds or source of wealth, abnormal payment channels, third-party payments, chargeback/refund investigations, abnormal fund movements, circumvention of risk controls, circumvention of KYC/AML/CFT reviews, arbitrage trading, abuse of promotional activities, wash trading, volume manipulation trading, price manipulation, fictitious orders, cross-account or cross-platform matched trading/hedging, provision of false or misleading information, or any other conduct in violation of this Agreement, platform rules, or applicable laws and regulations, the Company shall have the right to charge a Base Principal Handling Fee of 6% on the relevant account principal, cumulative deposit amount, actual inflow and outflow amount, account balance, or any amount reasonably determined by the Company to be associated with such violation or high-risk matter.

The foregoing 6% Base Principal Handling Fee constitutes a basic processing charge applicable to situations involving violations, high-risk circumstances, identity irregularities, fund irregularities, account irregularities, trading irregularities, refund/chargeback investigations, or compliance reviews. Once the Company reasonably determines that the relevant account falls within any of the violation or high-risk circumstances set out in this Section, the Company shall be entitled to charge this fee. The charging of this fee shall not affect the Company's right under this Agreement to further charge Special-Risk Account Administrative Fees, Trading Record Investigation Fees, other ancillary charges, or to take measures including fund freezing, withholding, set-off, non-return of principal, or any other remedies.

(b) Platform Processing Fee for Failure to Meet Trading Volume Requirements

When a client applies for a withdrawal, refund, return of funds, account closure, or any other fund-handling request, and the trading volume of the client's trading account has not reached the trading volume requirement prescribed, announced, notified, or otherwise applicable to that client account by the Company from time to time, the Company shall have the right to charge a Platform Processing Fee of 6% on the relevant actual inflow and outflow amount in accordance with platform rules.

This fee constitutes a platform administrative and payment processing charge arising from deposits, withdrawals, refunds, returns of funds, account closures, or other fund-handling activities where the client has failed to satisfy the trading volume requirement. Where the same account also involves any violation or high-risk circumstance described in paragraph (a) of this Section, the Company shall have the right to charge the Base Principal Handling Fee under paragraph (a) and may additionally charge other fees under this Section depending on the circumstances.

(c) Trading Record Investigation Fee for Improper Trading Activities

Where the Company reasonably believes that a client account, related account, or its trading activity involves or may involve improper trading activities, including but not limited to arbitrage trading, abuse of promotional activities, wash trading, volume manipulation trading, price manipulation, fictitious orders, cross-account or cross-platform matched trading/hedging, circumvention of risk controls, provision of false or misleading information, third-party payments, chargeback/refund abuse, or any other conduct in violation of this Agreement, platform rules, or applicable laws and regulations, the Company shall have the right to charge a Trading Record Investigation Fee based on actual trading volume at a rate of USD 3 per Lot, or the equivalent amount converted into the currency of the client account at the applicable exchange rate at the time of deduction.

(d) Special-Risk Account Administrative Fee

Where a client account, related account, or associated account is reasonably determined by the Company to be a special-risk account, including but not limited to circumstances involving identity verification irregularities, irregular KYC documentation, failure of online KYC authentication, insufficient or unverifiable proof of financial capacity, inability to reasonably explain the source of funds or source of wealth, inconsistency between account activity and disclosed financial condition, abnormal payment channels, third-party payments, related accounts, duplicate registrations, nominee accounts, unauthorized account operation, account lending, account leasing, third-party actual control, chargeback/refund investigations, improper trading investigations, or any other circumstance requiring additional administrative, risk management, or compliance handling, the Company shall have the right to charge a Special-Risk Account Administrative Fee of between 3% and 5% of the cumulative deposit amount of the relevant account.

The actual percentage shall be determined at the Company's discretion based on the complexity of the case, investigation costs, number of related accounts, identity verification costs, source of funds/source of wealth verification costs, third-party verification costs, legal and compliance review costs, payment channel investigation costs, and the seriousness of the violation.

(e) Other Ancillary Charges

The Company shall have the right to charge the relevant account for any reasonable costs actually incurred in connection with document investigations, third-party verification, legal and compliance reviews, refund/chargeback processing, payment channel investigations, bank or payment institution fees, foreign exchange differences, external consultants, legal counsel, audits, or related administrative procedures.

(f) Concurrent Application of Fees

The client acknowledges and agrees that the fees set out in this Section are of different natures and may be applied separately or concurrently depending on the circumstances. Where a client account or related account simultaneously involves improper trading activities, a high-risk account, a special-risk account, failure to meet trading volume requirements, identity irregularities, fund irregularities, account irregularities, KYC irregularities, refund/chargeback investigations, trading record investigations, or other risk review matters, the Company shall have the right to charge simultaneously or separately: the 6% Base Principal Handling Fee under paragraph (a), the Platform Processing Fee for failure to meet trading volume requirements under paragraph (b), the Trading Record Investigation Fee of USD 3 per Lot under paragraph (c), the 3%–5% Special-Risk Account Administrative Fee under paragraph (d), and the Other Ancillary Charges under paragraph (e).

(g) Deduction and Set-Off

The Company shall have the right to directly deduct, set off, or retain the foregoing fees and costs from the principal, account balance, refundable amounts, trading profits, bonuses, rebates, rewards, incentives, discounts, or other amounts payable within the client's account and any related accounts. Where an account is reasonably determined to involve nominee trading, non-genuine identity verification, identity theft, failed KYC authentication, account holding on behalf of another person, third-party actual control, or any other serious violation, the Company shall have the right to defer, freeze, or withhold the relevant principal and account balance until the completion of the review, investigation, or related procedures.

(h) No Effect on Other Rights

The collection of the foregoing fees shall not affect the Company's right under this Agreement to impose deposit restrictions, withdrawal restrictions, account suspensions, account terminations, trade cancellations, recovery of improper gains, consolidation of related accounts, netting, set-off, recovery of losses, withholding of principal, or any other remedies.

48. Payment Terms

48.1 Unless otherwise specified and "according to the terms mutually agreed upon by both parties," all commissions, fees, and other related charges shall be considered due and payable immediately. Unless otherwise specified in these terms and conditions, any amounts payable by you to us may be deducted from any transaction profits or from your account. In the event of delayed payment, overdue amounts will accrue interest at a rate reasonably determined by us.

48.2 Unless otherwise specified in these terms and conditions, all amounts payable by you to us may, at our sole discretion, be paid as follows:

- (a) Deductions from funds held by us on your behalf; or
- (b) Payment in accordance with applicable account terms, transaction settlement confirmations, or other relevant agreements provided by us. This includes, but is not limited to, any unpaid fees, transaction charges, or other amounts payable related to your trading account.

49. Currency Exchange

49.1 If we receive or recover any amounts related to your obligations, and the currency of that amount differs from the currency in which the payment is due (whether based on a court judgment or other obligations), you must indemnify us for any costs or losses incurred due to currency exchange (including exchange costs), keeping us harmless.

49.2 We have the right (but not the obligation) to conduct the following currency exchanges:

- (a) Any realized profits, losses, option premiums, commissions, interest expenses, and brokerage fees if their currency differs from your base currency (i.e., the currency used in your account);
- (b) Any cash deposits or other cash deposits used to purchase assets denominated in a currency other than your base currency;
- (c) Funds we hold, if we believe it is necessary or appropriate to fulfill your obligations and liabilities in that currency.

49.3 We will conduct currency exchanges at exchange rates we consider reasonable, and we may apply a reasonable adjustment to the applicable exchange rate.

50. OTC Trading Pricing

For impending OTC trades, we have the right to provide the prices at which we are willing to transact with you. Unless we exercise our rights under these terms and conditions to close a trade or contract, you are responsible for deciding whether to trade or enter into a contract at the provided price.

51. Prohibited Trading Practices

51.1 Prohibited Unauthorized Access and Reverse Engineering:

You must not illegally access or attempt to access, reverse-engineer, or otherwise circumvent the security measures applied by us on our online trading platform or computer systems.

51.1.1 Users shall not use VPNs, proxies, Tor, or any other technologies to conceal or falsify their location, device, or network identity in order to circumvent regional restrictions, KYC/AML requirements, or related-party detection. Any violation may result in the Company taking measures pursuant to Sections 51.3, 57.4, 58.4, and 58.5, including but not limited to account restrictions or closure, aggregation and netting (including set-off), and cancellation of bonuses and rebates.

(Use of a VPN for connection stability requires prior written consent and must not be employed to evade the above-mentioned restrictions.)

51.2 Prohibited Use of AI Trading Software:

The use of any software that we deem to be designed for the application of artificial intelligence analysis on the online trading platform and/or computer systems to gain an unfair advantage or exploit our platform is strictly prohibited.

51.3 Prohibited Market Manipulation and Improper Trading Activities:

We prohibit the following activities, which will be considered as violations and may lead to account penalties, including but not limited to:

(a) Arbitrage Trading

Exploiting market price errors or delays to conduct arbitrage trading based on unjust price discrepancies.

(b) Wash Trading

Engaging in transactions between different accounts that have no real economic meaning, to create false market activity.

(c) Price Manipulation

Deliberately employing improper means to affect market prices, causing deviations from the genuine supply and demand conditions of the market. This includes, but is not limited to, intentionally using improper methods to influence the price of this Platform or the underlying market in a manner that deviates from the true supply and demand, such as manipulative conduct during periods of low liquidity or restricted trading hours (see subsection (h)), order concentration, self-trading / cross-trading, wash trades, price pumping or price suppression, with the intent to trigger other participants' orders (including stop-loss or forced liquidation) or to affect the Company's pricing and/or risk control parameters.

(d) Spoofing & Layering

Sending a large number of orders that are not intended to be executed to deceive other market participants.

(e) Collusive Trading

Colluding with others to engage in trading activities aimed at unjustly influencing market prices or trading volumes.

(f) Excessive Leverage & Risk Manipulation

Using improper methods or excessive leverage to amplify market risks and conduct improper trading.

(g) Abuse of Negative Balance Policy

Exploiting the platform's negative balance policy for improper operations, such as overusing leverage or other means to push the account balance into the negative and exploiting this situation for arbitrage or improper trading.

(h) Short-Term Scalping (Scalping)

Conducting trades involving the opening and closing of positions within extremely short periods, including through the use of Expert Advisors ("EAs") to capture momentary price movements during periods of extreme market conditions or rapid price fluctuations, and engaging in frequent or concentrated trading through the triggering of take-profit or stop-loss orders within a short period, thereby resulting in the Company being unable to effectively hedge or offset the corresponding market exposure.

(i) Low-Liquidity Timing Manipulation

Engaging in practices such as order concentration, wash trades, price pumping, or price suppression during periods of significantly limited or restricted liquidity (e.g., pre-market / after-hours trading, weekend openings, holidays, or other circumstances as determined by the Company) with the intent to influence the Platform's quotations, trigger other participants' orders, or affect the Company's pricing and/or risk control parameters.

(j) Cross-Account / Off-Platform Matched Trades or Hedging

Using related accounts (as defined in Section 57.2) or collaborating with third-party platforms/accounts to establish offsetting or highly correlated positions for the purpose of matched trading/hedging, transferring risk, circumventing risk controls, or generating risk-free returns; including but not limited to placing simultaneous orders across different accounts or platforms, offsetting positions against each other, or transferring profits and losses.

Any violation may result in the Company taking measures pursuant to Sections 57.4, 58.4, and 58.5, including but not limited to account restriction or closure, aggregation and netting (including set-off), and cancellation of bonuses and rebates.

(k) News Event Trading Abuse

The Company permits Clients to engage in normal trading during periods of major news releases, economic data announcements, central bank decisions, interest rate decisions, employment data, inflation data, GDP releases, regulatory announcements, unexpected market events, or any other events that may result in significant market volatility. However, such trading activities must be conducted on the basis of the Client's established trading history and shall be reasonably consistent with the Client's historical trading pattern, trading volume, account funding, risk tolerance, deposit size, position management, and trading frequency.

The Company does not permit Clients to establish new accounts, utilize accounts with no established trading history, temporarily fund accounts, operate low-funded accounts, use related accounts, split accounts, or open multiple additional accounts solely for the purpose of participating in trading during major news events, including engaging in concentrated trading, abnormal trading, fully or substantially fully margined trading, one-sided directional trading, cross-account hedging, cross-platform hedging, or any other trading activities involving a manifest imbalance between risk assumed and potential return.

Where the Company reasonably determines that a Client's account, related account(s), or trading activities exhibit one or more of the following circumstances, such conduct may be deemed to constitute News Event Trading Abuse:

- (i) Trading is conducted solely immediately before or after major news releases, economic data announcements, central bank decisions, interest rate decisions, employment data, inflation data, GDP releases, regulatory announcements, unexpected market events, or other significant market events, while the account lacks a normal, continuous, or reasonable trading history;
- (ii) The Client temporarily opens an account, makes temporary deposits, substantially increases trading volume, materially increases market exposure, or concentrates trading activities immediately before or after major news events;
- (iii) The Client's account has no established normal trading history over an extended period, or its historical trading pattern is materially inconsistent with the trading volume, trading frequency, position size, or position management adopted during major news events;
- (iv) During major news events, the Client suddenly and materially increases trading volume, adopts fully or substantially fully margined positions, or trades in a manner that significantly exceeds the account's funding level, historical trading practices, or reasonable risk tolerance;
- (v) The Client utilizes multiple accounts, related accounts, third-party accounts, or newly established additional accounts to conduct long-short hedging, split trading, wash trading, cross-account hedging, or cross-platform hedging during major news events;
- (vi) The Client deliberately amplifies market exposure by utilizing minimal funding, low margin, excessive leverage, or other similar methods, and seeks to transfer trading risk to the Company or create a manifest imbalance between risk and reward by exploiting the Company's Negative Balance Protection mechanism, stop-out mechanism, quotation delays, insufficient liquidity, slippage, price gaps, or extreme market volatility;

(vii) The Client's trading activities indicate that the primary purpose is not to engage in genuine market speculation or a legitimate ongoing trading strategy, but rather to obtain an improper advantage by exploiting price gaps, liquidity shortages, execution delays, market volatility, the Company's Negative Balance Protection mechanism, or the Company's risk control systems during major news events;

(viii) Based on the account history, trading timing, trading volume, trading frequency, position ratio, deposit timing, deposit amount, related accounts, device/IP/login information, payment channels, order patterns, profit and loss distribution, market exposure, or any other relevant risk indicators, the Company reasonably determines that the relevant account(s) may be engaged in News Event Trading Abuse, abnormal trading, risk transfer, or any other improper trading conduct.

In respect of any of the foregoing conduct, the Company reserves the right to designate the relevant account(s), related account(s), and trading activities as high-risk for enhanced review and, pursuant to Clauses 43.8, 47.7, 51.6, 56.15, 57, 75, and 76, to impose trading restrictions, withdrawal restrictions, freeze funds, cancel or amend transactions, cancel or recover profits, cancel or adjust Negative Balance Protection, consolidate related accounts, perform net settlement, deduct fees, withhold principal, set off relevant amounts, or take any other measures the Company considers appropriate.

We reserve the sole discretion to determine whether your trading behavior involves any of the above violations, and we reserve the right to take appropriate actions depending on the situation, including but not limited to:

- (a) Immediately adjusting orders and prices in the relevant accounts;
- (b) Restricting account access to real-time trading quotes (including the withdrawal of profits from historical trades);
- (c) Temporarily or permanently closing your trading account and canceling all trades;
- (d) Prohibiting you from opening any new accounts with our company;
- (e) Reclaiming any profits/losses gained from the violative trades and refunding the original deposit, less any deposit and withdrawal fees.

51.4 Market Condition Changes

We are under no obligation to notify you of changes in market conditions. You are responsible for monitoring your open positions and taking action when necessary.

We will not be liable for any losses resulting from a failure to act promptly.

51.5 MT4/MT5 Multi-Account Management

The company may offer MT4/MT5 multi-account management features, allowing clients to manage multiple trading accounts. You hereby declare and warrant that, unless explicitly permitted in writing by us, you shall not use this feature to manage trading accounts that do not belong to you.

51.6 Sanctions and Enforcement Measures:

If the Company reasonably determines that you have breached these Terms, or have engaged in prohibited trading techniques, improper trading activities, abuse of trading mechanisms, circumvention of risk controls, related-account operations, cross-account or cross-platform matched trading/hedging, use of prohibited software, abuse of the negative balance policy, or any other conduct in violation of this Agreement, the Company reserves the right to take any action it deems necessary, including but not limited to:

- (a) Completely block your access to our online trading platform;
- (b) Block and/or revoke your access credentials;
- (c) Restrict, suspend, or terminate your account;
- (d) Cancel, reverse, recover, or adjust the relevant transactions;
- (e) Cancel, confiscate, or recover any profits, gains, bonuses, rebates, rewards, incentives, discounts, or other benefits obtained by you, directly or indirectly, as a result of improper trading activities;
- (f) Charge the Trading Record Investigation Fee for improper trading activities, the Special-Risk Account Administrative Fee, and other ancillary charges pursuant to Section 47.7;
- (g) Where the relevant conduct also involves nominee trading, non-genuine identity verification, identity theft, account holding on behalf of another person, third-party actual control, abnormal fund movements, or any other serious violation, the Company may, pursuant to Sections 24.4, 24.5, 57, and Section 75.1(g), impose withdrawal restrictions, freeze funds, withhold principal, set off relevant amounts, or take any other appropriate measures.

In addition, the Company shall have the right to notify any relevant third parties of your violation and to continue developing tools designed to identify fraudulent, abnormal, improper, or unlawful access to and use of our online trading platform.

In the event of any dispute arising from such improper trading activities, the Company shall make its determination based on reasonable and good-faith discretion. Such determination shall be final and binding upon all participants and shall not be subject to objection or further correspondence. You agree to indemnify and hold harmless the Company and its affiliated entities from and against any liabilities, losses, damages, costs, and expenses, including legal fees, arising directly or indirectly from your breach of this Agreement, platform rules, or any applicable laws.

Chapter 8: Your Account

52. Account

52.1 In order to provide our services and handle the transactions described in these terms, we will assist you in opening and managing one or more accounts (hereinafter referred to as "Account") on our online trading platform. Your account will be denominated in a currency designated by us and will record all transactions and contracts entered into on our online trading platform.

52.2 Depending on the transaction volume in your account, executed trades may be consolidated into single or multiple balance transactions, reflecting your net profit and loss. However, you may still view and export your complete transaction history in the member area.

53. Base Currency

53.1 You must designate a base currency for each account on the online trading platform, with options including US Dollar (USD) or any other currency listed on our website, which should be determined at the time of account opening or mutually agreed upon in advance.

53.2 All payment transactions in your account must be conducted in your base currency. If we receive or recover any amounts that do not match your account obligations and are in a currency other than your base currency, or if the refund currency differs from the base currency when you withdraw or refund from your account, the provisions of Clause 49 will apply, with appropriate modifications. Additionally, we reserve the right (but not the obligation) to refund in the original currency.

53.3 Unless agreed upon in writing by both parties in advance, we do not accept payments made from your account to third parties. If a client deposits funds via a third party, the platform will refund the amount via the original payment method and may charge up to 6% in processing fees based on the payment method.

54. Access Code

54.1 To allow you to access and use our online trading platform, we will provide a unique username and password (the "Access Code") for each of your accounts. These access codes enable you to:

- (a) Access and use the online trading platform;

- (b) Access and use your account to view real-time quotes and historical transaction data for your open positions;
- (c) Access and use your account to execute trades and/or contracts, and place orders related to the trading platform.

We may periodically provide features to reset login details and passwords to protect your account security or prevent unauthorized access and use. Additionally, you may only log in to your account using the access code we provide or via other methods mutually agreed upon in writing in advance by both parties.

54.2 Regarding your Access Code, you acknowledge and agree to:

- (a) Be responsible for maintaining the confidentiality of your access code;
- (b) Not share your access code with anyone else;
- (c) We may rely on any instructions, orders, and other communications made with your access code, and you will be responsible for any transactions or charges resulting from those actions;
- (d) If you discover or suspect any unauthorized use of your access code, you should immediately notify our customer support department.

54.3 You are responsible for monitoring and restricting access to your account and must take all reasonable steps to ensure that your access code is not disclosed to anyone. If unauthorized access occurs due to a breach of these terms, you will be responsible for all losses and costs arising from such access.

54.4 If your access code is lost, stolen, or compromised, you must immediately notify us in writing. Upon receiving your notification, we will immediately terminate your access code. However, you remain responsible for any actions conducted using your access code before its termination. Without affecting the foregoing provisions, we have the right, at our discretion, to terminate, revoke, suspend, modify, and/or change any or all of your access codes at any time, with or without prior notice, and we will make reasonable efforts to notify you in advance when feasible, though we are under no obligation to provide prior notice.

54.5 You must make every effort to ensure that you comply with the following:

- (a) All applicable laws, rules, and/or regulations;
- (b) The terms and conditions of this agreement;
- (c) Any additional terms and conditions mutually agreed upon in writing by both parties;

- (d) All disclaimers and other terms and conditions outlined in any part of the online trading platform;
- (e) Any other terms and conditions that may be in effect from time to time under this agreement.

Additionally, you are required to provide us with information necessary for compliance with applicable Anti-Money Laundering (AML) Regulations and/or other relevant third-party, governmental, or regulatory authorities' requirements as requested by us.

54.6 You shall indemnify and hold us harmless from all liabilities arising from your failure to take sufficient measures to protect the security of your access code and prevent unauthorized access and/or use of your account on the online trading platform. You will also indemnify us for any legal, administrative, or arbitration costs and expenses arising from such incidents, and you shall be responsible for any damages, costs, and expenses resulting from your failure to comply with these terms.

55. Partners and Business Introducers

If you were introduced to the company through a partner or business introducer, you acknowledge and agree that:

- (a) You have authorized the partner/business introducer to introduce the company to you;
- (b) The partner/business introducer may receive commissions based on the company's relevant policies.

56. Deposits, Refunds, and Withdrawals

56.1 We reserve the right to adjust deposit and withdrawal limits and related processing fees at any time, including but not limited to applicable minimum/maximum deposit and withdrawal amounts, fees, payment methods, and processing times.

56.2 You may deposit funds into your account at any time. Deposits are only accepted from payment methods in your name (e.g., bank transfers, e-wallets, etc.). Under no circumstances do we accept third-party or anonymous payments. In addition:

- (a) Deposits must be made through the platform's official deposit channel. Do not use non-official deposit links or third-party accounts. If you make a deposit through an unofficial channel and any loss or dispute arises, the platform will not be responsible;

- (b) Deposits must be made using the platform's designated payment methods; other methods will not be accepted.

Deposits are generally credited within 1 business day, but the actual processing time may vary depending on the payment method and bank processing procedures.

56.3 If you submit a withdrawal request, we will deduct the corresponding funds from your account balance and make reasonable efforts to process your withdrawal request. Withdrawal processing will be subject to the following conditions:

- (a) The withdrawal request must include all necessary information and comply with these terms and applicable regulations;
- (b) Funds must be withdrawn using a payment method in your name (e.g., bank transfers, e-wallets) and may not be sent to third-party accounts;
- (c) You must complete KYC verification or submit complete identity verification documents to support your withdrawal request;
- (d) Withdrawals must comply with applicable Anti-Money Laundering (AML) regulations. We may require you to provide additional documents or information to ensure the legitimacy of the transaction. We reserve the right to delay processing the withdrawal until the AML compliance review is complete;
- (e) We may, based on internal risk management, refuse to process withdrawals using certain payment methods or request you to change the withdrawal method and provide further proof.

Withdrawal Processing Time: Subject to the fulfillment of the foregoing conditions, we will process your withdrawal request within the same day to three (3) business days; however, the actual time of arrival of funds may be delayed due to the processing progress of the bank or payment institution. Withdrawals/refunds involving Related Accounts, as defined in Section 57.2, shall be handled in accordance with Sections 56.12 to 56.15; aggregation and netting (including set-off) shall be processed in accordance with Section 58.5.

56.4 We currently do not charge additional fees for customer deposits and withdrawals. However, your bank, third-party processing institutions, or payment providers may charge transaction fees, including but not limited to fees for international bank payments. The company is not responsible for these fees and recommends that you inquire with your financial institution for more information. We reserve the right to charge transfer fees and may adjust related fee policies based on actual circumstances.

Handling When Funds Cannot Be Refunded to the Original Payment Method:

- (a) If we are unable to refund remaining funds to the original payment method, we will use wire transfer for the refund. Additionally, if currency conversion is required, the refund will be made in the equivalent amount based on the applicable exchange rate at the time;
- (b) As the refund may involve currency conversion, the exchange rate risk will be borne by you;
- (c) If your payment provider refuses the refund, preventing us from completing the refund, we will use wire transfer to refund the amount and bear any additional fees arising from this;
- (d) If funds are lost or incorrectly received due to incorrect payment information provided by you, we will not be responsible for any losses.

56.5 Concerns Regarding Source of Funds, Sender Identity, and Payment Channels

We do not proactively review the source of every fund transfer or the identity of every sender, nor shall we be responsible for any losses arising from a client's transactions. However, where we have concerns regarding the source of funds, sender identity, payment channels, payment instruments, source of funds, source of wealth, beneficial owner, ultimate controller, or account activity, the Company reserves the right to refuse acceptance of such funds, restrict account functions, require the client to provide supplementary documents or explanations, and return, freeze, defer the processing of, or otherwise deal with the relevant funds in any manner the Company considers appropriate.

Any related transfer charges, payment processing fees, channel fees, foreign exchange differences, third-party verification costs, and other reasonable costs arising from refunds, return of funds, investigations, or administrative procedures shall be borne solely by the client and shall not be refunded by the platform.

Where the account involves failure to meet trading volume requirements, a special-risk account, KYC irregularities, insufficient proof of financial capacity, unverifiable source of funds or source of wealth, non-genuine identity verification, unauthorized account operation, nominee accounts, related accounts, improper trading activities, refund/chargeback investigations, or any other risk review circumstances, the Company may, pursuant to Sections 24.4, 24.5, 47.7, 57, and Section 75.1(g), charge the relevant fees, impose withdrawal restrictions, freeze funds, withhold principal, set off relevant amounts, or take any other appropriate measures.

56.6 Withdrawal Restrictions for Failure to Meet Trading Volume Requirements, Improper Trading Activities, and High-Risk Accounts

When you apply for a withdrawal, refund, return of funds, account closure, or any other fund-handling request, and the trading volume of the client's trading account has not reached the trading volume requirement prescribed, announced, notified, or otherwise applicable to that client account by the Company from time to time, the Company shall have the right, in accordance with platform rules, to charge a Platform Processing Fee of 6% of the relevant actual inflow and outflow amount.

The aforementioned Platform Processing Fee constitutes a platform administrative and payment processing charge arising from deposits, withdrawals, refunds, returns of funds, account closures, or other fund-handling activities where the client has failed to satisfy the trading volume requirement. The imposition of such fee shall not, by itself, constitute a determination that the client has engaged in improper trading, fraud, arbitrage, abuse of platform rules, or any other breach of contract.

The Company shall have the right to directly deduct or set off the aforementioned Platform Processing Fee from the client's account balance, refundable amounts, pending withdrawal amounts, returned funds, or any other amounts payable to the client. Where the client account also involves improper trading activities, KYC irregularities, unverifiable source of funds or source of wealth, a special-risk account, nominee account, non-genuine identity verification, unauthorized account operation, account holding on behalf of another person, third-party actual control, refund/chargeback investigations, or any other risk review circumstances, the Company may additionally take the relevant measures pursuant to Sections 24.4, 24.5, 47.7, 57, and Section 75.1(g).

56.7 You will bear all forex risks (including risks arising from deposits or withdrawals) incurred in fulfilling these terms. If you provide incorrect payment information leading to a loss of funds, we will not be responsible for any losses.

56.8 We will not pay interest on any funds deposited into our platform, including but not limited to:

- (a) Funds that remain unused in your account balance;
- (b) Platform funds, whether or not related to trades or contracts, will not earn interest.

You agree and acknowledge that we will be the sole beneficiary of any such interest.

56.9 If your deposit method is via credit card, withdrawals will be refunded to the original credit card account first, with the amount refunded not exceeding the total deposit amount made via the credit card. Any remaining funds may be withdrawn through other payment methods.

56.10 We strictly prohibit credit card/financial card fraud and will take legal action against all fraudulent activities. Regardless of the situation, we will file criminal lawsuits under the laws of the local jurisdiction. Additionally, we will report the fraud to the law enforcement agency in your location and pursue legal action against any fraudulent activities, including but not limited to civil lawsuits and criminal charges against the responsible parties. In such cases, we reserve the right to take the following measures, including but not limited to:

- (a) Restricting, freezing, or revoking your access to the online trading platform;
- (b) Blocking or revoking your account credentials;
- (c) Terminating your account;
- (d) Recovering all profits or income directly or indirectly resulting from fraudulent transactions;
- (e) Reporting the fraudulent transactions and their impact to relevant third parties or institutions;
- (f) Taking appropriate legal actions immediately and continuing to develop necessary tools to detect and prevent fraudulent activities.

All disputes related to refund transactions will be decided by the company at its sole discretion, and such decisions will be final and binding on all parties, with no objections allowed.

56.11 If you initiate a refund transaction for funds deposited through us (whether intentionally or unintentionally), we have the right to charge a $150 USD investigation fee to your account to cover the costs of the related investigation.

56.12 Original Method Refund and Proportional Allocation: Refunds to accounts identified as Related Accounts shall be returned, on a priority basis, to their respective original funding sources. Where multiple payment methods are involved, refunds shall be allocated in proportion to the actual deposit ratio of each method. If refunding to the original payment method is not possible, the refund shall be processed via wire transfer. (This aligns with the existing rule: "If funds cannot be returned to the original payment method → process via wire transfer.")

56.13 Fees and Timing: Refunds may incur third-party channel fees or foreign exchange differences, and such costs shall be borne by the Client. Refund processing may be suspended until AML compliance reviews are completed, and will be executed within a reasonable time thereafter.

56.14 Refund of Funds Only, No Interest: We shall not pay interest on any funds held in the account.

56.15 Restrictions During Investigations

Where an account, related account, or related trading activity involves or may involve arbitrage, abuse, improper trading activities, abnormal payments, refunds, chargebacks, identity verification, online KYC authentication, proof of financial capacity, source of funds verification, source of wealth verification, beneficial ownership verification, verification of the actual controller, nominee accounts, non-genuine identity verification, unauthorized account operation, account holding on behalf of another person, third-party actual control, or any other compliance or risk investigation, the Company may refuse, defer, or restrict withdrawals until the relevant investigation, verification, review, or administrative procedure has been completed.

During the course of any investigation, verification, legal and compliance review, or related administrative procedure, the Company may, pursuant to Sections 24.4, 24.5, 47.7, 57, and Section 75.1(g), charge Trading Record Investigation Fees, Special-Risk Account Administrative Fees, and other ancillary charges, and may freeze funds, withhold principal, set off relevant amounts, or take any other appropriate measures.

57. Multiple Trading Accounts

57.1 If you hold multiple accounts on this platform, we have the right to merge these accounts and manage them as a single account. Additionally, we reserve the right, at our sole discretion, to limit the number of accounts that a single user may hold.

57.2 Related Accounts

Refers to one or more accounts that, in our reasonable judgment, are directly or indirectly controlled by the same ultimate beneficial owner/ultimate controller, or are subject to a common trading arrangement. In making such determinations, we may consider, without limitation, the following non-exhaustive factors: device/browser fingerprint, IP address and login geolocation, login/trading behavior patterns, consistency or high correlation of payment instruments (bank cards/e-wallets, etc.), contact information, mailing address, KYC document characteristics, order and risk control patterns, referral/IB relationships, and other relevant indicators.

For the avoidance of doubt: this definition is solely for the purposes of risk control and compliance-related consolidated management and netting, and does not constitute a recognition of joint accounts or co-accounts, nor does it by itself give rise to joint liability or any other rights or obligations between Clients.

57.3 Nominee Accounts, Straw-Man Accounts, Non-Genuine Identity Verification, and Managed Trading by Third Parties

Unless expressly authorized in writing by the Company in advance, you shall not hold an account on behalf of another person, open an account in another person's name, register an account using another person's identity, lend, lease, sell, or transfer an account, nor use in any manner multiple nominee accounts, related accounts, straw-man accounts, third-party accounts, or accounts that have not been genuinely verified in your own name to circumvent risk controls, circumvent KYC/AML/CFT reviews, obtain improper benefits, engage in improper trading activities, or conceal the actual controller of an account.

Where the Company reasonably believes that an account involves nominee holding arrangements, straw-man accounts, borrowed-name account opening, impersonation registration, identity theft, account lending, account leasing, account trading, account operation by another person, third-party actual control, non-genuine identity verification, unauthorized account operation, inability to complete online KYC authentication, irregular KYC documentation, or any other similar circumstance, the Company shall have the right to immediately take restrictive measures pursuant to Sections 24.4, 24.5, 47.7, 57.4, 57.5, and Section 75.1(g), including account restrictions, account freezes, account closure, withdrawal restrictions, withholding of principal, set-off of amounts, recovery of losses, or any other appropriate measures.

57.4 Review and Restrictive Measures

- (a) Once the Company reasonably determines, based on the foregoing standards, that there exist related accounts, abnormal activities, nominee accounts, straw-man accounts, non-genuine identity verification, unauthorized account operation, third-party actual control, KYC irregularities, unverifiable source of funds or source of wealth, improper trading activities, or any other high-risk circumstances, the Company may, without prior notice, take one or more of the following measures:
 - (b) Restrict, suspend, or freeze trading and withdrawals;
 - (c) Require the client to re-complete online KYC authentication, provide supplementary documentation, undergo identity verification, provide proof of financial capacity, source of funds verification, source of wealth verification, beneficial ownership verification, or verification of the actual controller;
 - (d) Suspend the calculation or distribution of promotions, bonuses, rebates, rewards, or other benefits;

- (e) Consolidate the relevant accounts and manage them as a single account;
- (f) Conduct netting and set-off settlement among the relevant accounts;
- (g) Close the relevant accounts;
- (h) Charge Special Handling Fees, Risk Account Administrative Fees, and other ancillary charges pursuant to Section 47.7;
- (i) Pursuant to Section 24.5 and Section 75.1(g), freeze, withhold, set off, or decline to return all or part of the principal, account balance, trading profits, bonuses, rebates, rewards, incentives, discounts, or other amounts payable in the relevant accounts and related accounts.

57.5 Liability and Recovery Rights

Where the Company reasonably determines that a client has engaged in violations, abuse, nominee arrangements, straw-man accounts, non-genuine identity verification, identity theft, account lending, account leasing, third-party actual control, circumvention of KYC/AML/CFT reviews, abnormal fund movements, improper trading activities, or any other high-risk circumstances, the Company may recover, cancel, reverse, reclaim, or adjust any profits, gains, bonuses, rebates, rewards, incentives, discounts, or other benefits obtained as a result thereof.

Without prejudice to any other rights under this Agreement, the Company may, pursuant to Sections 24.5, 47.7, 58, 59, and Section 75.1(g), freeze, withhold, set off, or decline to return all or any part of the principal, account balance, trading profits, and other amounts payable in the relevant account and any related accounts. The Company may further apply such amounts toward the set-off of any fees, losses, compensation, investigation costs, legal and compliance costs, third-party verification costs, payment channel costs, banking fees, chargeback/refund risks, administrative handling costs, or other reasonable costs owed by the client to the Company.

The Company may also, in accordance with applicable laws and regulations, regulatory requirements, or upon the request of payment institutions, banks, financial institutions, third-party verification agencies, law enforcement authorities, or regulatory authorities, notify, report, assist in the investigation of, or otherwise deal with the relevant accounts and funds.

58. Net Settlement Agreement

58.1 Under this agreement, all transactions between you and us are based on a single agreement, and all transactions constitute part of that agreement. We will not engage in transactions with you without this single agreement in place.

58.2 If we exercise our rights under these terms, all payment obligations will be consolidated, and the party with the higher payable amount will pay the difference in order to fulfill and release the respective payment obligations.

58.3 This net settlement agreement is binding on all parties to this agreement and applies to the estate and/or creditors of all parties during the term of the client relationship.

58.4 If we reasonably determine that you are engaged in arbitrage or abuse (whether alone or in conjunction with other clients, including but not limited to risk-free arbitrage) to gain financial benefits without genuine market trading intent, or are conducting market risk transactions, we have the right to exercise the following rights under this agreement at our sole discretion, without prior notice or authorization:

- (a) Close your open positions and/or close your account;
- (b) Consolidating and integrating accounts under your name, under your actual control, or reasonably determined by the Company to be related to you (including accounts you have opened with the Company and its affiliates);
- (c) Offset and settle your account balance (including profits and losses from open positions).

58.5 If the client relationship is terminated, all debts and obligations between the parties will be settled through net settlement. The value of open contracts will be calculated according to the following principles, and the final payable amount will be the difference between the amounts owed by both parties.

Consolidated Netting of Related Accounts: Where we determine that Related Accounts exist, such accounts may be treated as a single entity:

- (a) Calculate the cumulative net deposits = total deposits of all Related Accounts – refunds/chargebacks/returns – fees/adjustments;
- (b) Consolidate funds and unrealized P&L for set-off, and process refunds only up to the lesser of the available balance or the cumulative net deposits;
- (c) Cancel and reverse bonuses, rebates, and any benefits obtained through abuse;
- (d) Exercise rights under Section 58.4, including liquidation, closure, and set-off.

59. Client Funds and Assets

59.1 You understand and agree that we may transfer all or part of your client funds to a third party (e.g., exchanges, clearing institutions, or intermediary brokers) for holding and management in order to facilitate your entering into or fulfilling contracts with that third party, or to meet your margin or collateral requirements for trading.

59.2 You understand and agree to authorize us to access and transfer funds from your account on your behalf, including but not limited to accessing funds required for trading, fulfilling contract-related obligations, and paying all amounts due to us or to third parties on your behalf, in accordance with the applicable terms and conditions for settlement.

59.3 Unless otherwise provided and expressly stated in the “Mutually Agreed Terms,” any payment made by us to you shall be made only to you personally and shall not be made to any other person unless otherwise mutually agreed by the parties.

The Company shall only make payments to an account held in the client's own name and approved by the Company after completing the necessary identity verification, KYC, AML, CFT, source of funds review, source of wealth review, and payment channel review. The Company reserves the right to refuse payment to any account not held in the client's own name, any third-party account, any unverifiable account, any abnormal payment channel, or any account that the Company reasonably considers to present a risk.

Where an account involves non-genuine identity verification, a straw-man account, account holding on behalf of another person, third-party actual control, identity theft, failed KYC authentication, unverifiable source of funds or source of wealth, abnormal fund movements, or any other high-risk circumstance, the Company may, pursuant to Sections 24.4, 24.5, 47.7, 57, and Section 75.1(g), restrict, defer, or refuse to process the relevant payment request and may freeze, withhold, set off, or decline to return the relevant funds.

59.4 Without prejudice to any other provisions of this Agreement, we may at any time, at our discretion, set off or deduct any funds in your account against any obligation you owe to us, and may consolidate or merge your accounts.

The Company shall have the right to directly deduct, set off, or retain from the principal, account balance, refundable amounts, trading profits, bonuses, rebates, rewards, incentives, discounts, or any other amounts payable in the client's account and any related accounts, any fees, losses, compensation, Trading Record Investigation Fees, Special-Risk Account Administrative Fees, other ancillary charges, payment channel costs, banking fees, chargeback/refund risks, legal and compliance review costs, third-party verification costs, administrative handling costs, or any other reasonable costs owed by the client to the Company.

Where an account involves serious identity-related violations, nominee trading, non-genuine identity verification, identity theft, account holding on behalf of another person, third-party actual control, circumvention of KYC/AML/CFT reviews, abnormal fund movements, improper trading activities, or any other material breach event, the Company may, pursuant to Section 75.1(g), freeze, withhold, set off, or decline to return all or any part of the principal, account balance, trading profits, and other amounts payable.

59.5 You have the right to withdraw funds not used for margin from your account, provided this is done before closing the account.

59.6 Trading in leveraged financial instruments involves significant investment risks. However, Mega implements a "negative balance protection policy" to ensure you do not lose more than the principal you invested.

59.7 If your account remains inactive for 5 consecutive years (and the account still has a positive balance), we will make reasonable efforts to contact you to confirm the status of the account and future arrangements. Please note that, according to Clause 47.5, idle fees may be charged, and any remaining funds are subject to this provision:

- (a) If we are unable to contact you, we have the right to treat your account as closed and handle any remaining funds according to the applicable terms;
- (b) If we successfully contact you and you submit a valid request, we will pay the amount owed to you.

60. Dormant, Dormancy Fee and Archiving Policy

60.1 If your trading account has had no activity (including trades, withdrawals, deposits, or internal transfers) for 90 days from the last activity, we will classify your account as dormant, and all pending orders may be canceled.

60.2 Dormant accounts will be charged a dormancy fee of $10 (or the equivalent amount) per month, or the entire remaining balance in the account (if the balance is below $10). If the account balance reaches zero after the dormancy fee is deducted, the account will automatically be archived.

60.3 For accounts that have never deposited funds, if there is no activity within 60 days after account registration, the account will be automatically archived.

Chapter 9: General Provisions

61. Acknowledgment and Commitments

61.1 You Acknowledge and Understand the following

(a) Risks of Leveraged and Non-Leveraged Trading

- Trading is highly speculative and may involve substantial risks.
- Engaging in margin trading carries the risk of losses exceeding your margin deposit.
- Due to the nature of leveraged trading, small fluctuations in the price of the underlying securities may result in significant losses, potentially exceeding your initial investment and margin deposit.
- Certain market conditions may make trade execution difficult or prevent execution at a specific price.
- You bear sole responsibility for any profits or losses resulting from your trades or contracts.

(b) Trading Responsibility and Investment Advice

- We do not provide investment advice.
- If you trade based on advice from us, our affiliates, introducing brokers, or other third parties and incur losses, you shall not hold us liable unless such losses result from gross negligence.
- We do not monitor your trades or contracts on an ongoing basis and shall not be responsible if trade results differ from your expectations or are unfavorable to you.
- There is no guarantee of profit or protection from loss in investment trading.
- Neither we, our affiliates, introducing brokers, nor any third party make any guarantees or representations regarding profitability.

(c) Risk Assessment and Acknowledgment

- You should fully understand the nature and risks associated with leveraged trading.

- You should carefully assess the suitability of leveraged trading based on your investment experience, objectives, financial condition, and other relevant factors.
- You confirm that you have read and understood the Risk Disclosure Statement available on our online trading platform, which outlines the risks associated with trading over-the-counter leveraged financial instruments.

61.2 The market conditions and environment for leveraged and non-leveraged trading may fluctuate due to various factors. Market price volatility, trading mechanisms, leverage effects, and other elements can significantly impact your trading results. You should fully understand and consider the following details when assessing trading risks and potential consequences:

(a) Leverage or Gearing Effects

Leveraged trading carries extremely high risks. The initial margin required for trading may be relatively small compared to the value of the underlying asset, thereby amplifying the effect of market fluctuations on your deposited funds. This effect can lead to significant gains but may also result in substantial losses.

If market movements cause your margin level to decrease, you may be required to deposit additional funds to maintain your position; otherwise, we have the right to liquidate your holdings. In extreme cases, you may lose your entire initial margin as well as any additional funds deposited. We reserve the right to forcibly close positions that fail to meet margin requirements without prior notice.

We reserve the right to modify leverage ratios at any time, including increasing or decreasing leverage, which may affect your trading costs and risk exposure. Please refer to our announcements or website updates for the latest information.

(b) Option Transactions

We currently do not offer foreign exchange option trading.

(c) Trading in Transactions in Leveraged Financial Instruments is Speculative Leveraged trading and contracts are subject to price fluctuations influenced by various factors, including but not limited to interest rate changes, balance of payments changes, domestic and international inflation rates, international trade restrictions, currency devaluation, and revaluation. In certain circumstances, the market may experience significant disruptions due to economic or political events, making it difficult for the market to respond appropriately to the risks involved.

(d) Electronic Trading Facilities

Most electronic trading systems rely on computer-supported platforms for order input, execution, settlement, registration, or clearing of trades. However, these systems can be disrupted or temporarily unavailable due to technical failures, which can impact your ability to execute trades. Your trading losses may be exacerbated by system limitations set by system providers, markets, exchanges, or clearinghouses.

(e) Electronic Trading

You will trade through our electronic trading system. The operation of electronic trading systems is different from that of open markets and may differ from other electronic trading systems. If you use an automated trading system, you should be aware of the risks associated with such systems, including the possibility that trade orders may fail to execute due to system malfunctions, delays in execution, or other factors.

(f) Commissions, fees and other charges

Before you begin trading, you should fully understand all applicable fees and charges, including commissions, costs, spreads, and other applicable fees. These charges may affect your final trading profits or exacerbate your trading losses.

(g) Risk-reducing and entry Order strategies

Certain types of orders, such as stop-loss orders, stop-limit orders, limit buy orders, or limit sell orders, are designed to reduce risk. However, market conditions may prevent these orders from being executed. Additionally, certain strategies (such as "spread" hedging or "straddle" trading) can be as risky as straightforward long or short positions. When market prices reach preset levels, these orders may turn into market orders, and the final execution price may differ from the expected price.

(h) Suspension or restriction of trading and pricing relationships

Market conditions (such as liquidity) or the operation of specific market rules (e.g., trading suspension, price limits, or circuit breakers) may make it difficult or even impossible to execute trades or hedge positions. Furthermore, the normal price relationship between underlying securities and traded securities may no longer exist, which can further affect the accuracy of market pricing.

(i) Deposited cash and property

You should fully understand the protection mechanisms for the funds you deposit, especially in the event of our bankruptcy or that of a third party, as you may face potential risks. In certain jurisdictions, the funds you deposit may not be protected under specific laws, and may not be treated as separate assets but instead combined with our own capital. Furthermore, the trades and contracts you enter into with us may not be protected by the same safeguards as exchange-traded contracts. If bankruptcy occurs, your assets may not be prioritized for protection, which could impact your ability to recover funds. In some cases, your funds may be kept separate from our operational funds but may still not be fully protected against all risks in the event of bankruptcy.

(j) Currency risks

The profit and loss of leveraged transactions and contracts (whether conducted in your local market or another jurisdiction) will be affected by fluctuations in exchange rates. If the currency units of a position need to be exchanged into another currency, it may impact the final trading results.

(k) Transactions in other jurisdictions

Trading in markets in other jurisdictions, including those linked to the local market, may expose you to additional risks. These markets may be subject to different regulatory standards, and their investor protection levels may be lower. Before trading, you should familiarize yourself with the local market rules applicable to the specific transaction or contract. Your local regulatory authority may not be able to enforce the market rules or regulations of other jurisdictions. Therefore, before engaging in such transactions, you should confirm whether your local jurisdiction and the relevant markets apply to your trading activities.

(l) Quoting and Execution Errors

If quoting or execution errors occur (which may include, but are not limited to, incorrect quotes, order errors, quotes not matching fair market prices, data input errors, abnormal quotes or transaction prices, third-party system or communication failures, etc.), we are not responsible for any account balance losses resulting from such errors.

Trading orders must be executed within the time allowed by the market, and the system must have enough time to calculate and update margin requirements. Otherwise, it may affect the order execution or cause the transaction to fail. Depending on market conditions, the executed order price may differ from the original price. Regardless of order type or whether additional margin (Margin Call) is involved, we are not responsible for any losses, canceled transactions, or changes in account positions caused by this.

In the event of quoting or execution errors, we reserve the right to make necessary corrections or adjustments unilaterally, and we hold the final decision-making authority. All disputes related to such errors will be solely determined by us, and we will not be liable for any responsibility or damages. Such decisions are not subject to objection or further discussion.

In addition, if any abnormality, error, or technical failure on the part of liquidity providers, market makers, or any third-party quotation providers results in the execution price of a client's transaction deviating significantly from the fair market price, or affects the accuracy of the closing price, the Company reserves the right to adjust, amend, or modify such transaction or closing price. Such adjustments shall be made with the principle of maintaining market fairness and protecting the client's legitimate trading interests, and shall be based on the Company's reasonable judgment of the price most closely reflecting the fair market value. The client agrees that the Company's final decision shall be binding on both parties.

(m) Off-Exchange Transactions

The transactions and contracts you engage in with us may involve over-the-counter (OTC) transactions rather than exchange market transactions. These transactions lack standardized valuation rules and market settlement procedures, and market participants may not be subject to strict financial requirements, increasing counterparty risk. In addition, OTC transactions may introduce extra uncertainty, such as difficulty in closing positions, difficulty in market price assessment, and difficulty in determining fair transaction value. The regulatory framework applicable to these transactions may differ from that of exchange markets or may even be completely unregulated. Therefore, before entering into such transactions, you should fully understand the relevant legal regulations and risks and carefully assess whether they align with your investment goals and risk tolerance.

61.3 Before engaging in trading, please be aware of the following points to ensure that you understand the potential risks and the way the market operates:

- (a) We reserve the right to close part or all of your open positions to collect any fees or amounts you owe. Even if your margin is fully lost, you are still obligated to pay any relevant fees to us in a timely manner.
- (b) If any underlying financial instrument becomes untradeable for any reason (including but not limited to bankruptcy, management decisions, etc.), we reserve the right to close all open or pending positions at the last quoted price provided by our liquidity provider.
- (c) We do not guarantee the execution of any trade orders. Whether for entry or stop-loss orders, there is no assurance that the trade will be executed at the order price you have set. All limit buy orders ("Entry Stops") and stop-limit orders ("Stops") will be executed at the first or best available market price after being triggered, which may not match your preset price.

- (d) If our liquidity provider is unable to provide liquidity, your order may experience execution delays or may not be executed at all. Additionally, the size of the order may affect the speed of execution. Please note that each order should be entered only once; otherwise, you may accidentally open unnecessary positions.
- (e) While using our online trading platform, you may encounter system errors due to hardware or software failures. System failures may cause your orders not to be executed as instructed, result in account balance errors, price deviations, or even failure to execute trades. We are not responsible for any account errors arising from such issues and reserve the right to make necessary corrections or adjustments to the relevant accounts.
- (f) Leveraged financial instrument trading does not guarantee profits, nor does it ensure that your trades or contracts will yield favorable results.
- (g) Although the forex, commodity, and index markets tend to have higher liquidity compared to other financial and trading markets, market conditions may sometimes cause difficulty in order execution or prevent orders, including "limit orders" (such as "stop-loss orders" or "take-profit orders"), from being executed at the set price. Therefore, even if the loss may be limited by the agreement's cap, significant losses could still occur within a short time.
- (h) In certain cases, depositing additional margin is not a mandatory requirement. However, we reserve the right to unilaterally close your positions when your account balance falls below the minimum margin requirement, without your consent.
- (i) Under abnormal market conditions, the prices of Contracts for Difference (CFDs) may fluctuate rapidly due to uncontrollable events, which neither you nor we can control. These conditions may partially or entirely limit your trading ability.
- (j) Our online trading platform does not support negative prices for financial instruments. If the price of any financial instrument drops to 0 or lower, our system will automatically begin closing all open positions at the current market price.
- (k) The risk information provided in this document does not cover all the risks involved in leveraged trading and does not include other important factors related to such trading. Therefore, before starting trading, you should thoroughly understand the specific details of this type of trading or seek professional advice.

- (l) Positions held by traders remain unchanged during market holidays. However, during weekends, the trading system may settle funds based on the current market liquidity and pricing mechanisms, which will reflect in your account balance. This settlement does not affect your position status but may involve overnight interest or other adjustments. Additionally, we reserve the right to hedge some or all of the contracts during the weekend based on market conditions. This operation may be executed shortly after the market reopens and could impact your position price.

Market liquidity tends to be lower during weekends, and price fluctuations may be larger, leading to a significant difference between the opening price and the Friday closing price. You cannot modify orders during this period, so stop-loss orders may experience slippage, and we are not responsible for this.

- (m) Using online trading technology may involve inherent risks, including but not limited to repeated instructions, price delays, inaccurate information provided, and trading abnormalities caused by network connection issues. The prices displayed on the trading platform are indicative quotes for executable prices, which may differ from the actual execution price of orders. Additionally, our trading platform relies on public communication networks for message transmission. We are not responsible for delays in quotes or failure to execute trades due to issues with your network connection (e.g., poor internet quality, network latency, weak mobile data or Wi-Fi signal, or problems with telecommunications or internet service providers) or other technical obstacles. Also, some online trading platform features may not be available on all devices or network environments.

62. Further Representations, Warranties and Covenants

62.1 Trading Identity and Financial Suitability: You declare and guarantee that you are the principal and ultimate beneficiary of all trades (not acting as an agent), and that no other individuals or institutions have interests in your account. Regardless of how regulatory bodies classify contract types, you understand and accept the risks associated with leveraged financial instruments (including over-the-counter market instruments) and ensure that such investments are suitable for you. Additionally, you confirm that you have sufficient financial capacity to bear any significant losses that may arise from your trades or contracts.

62.2 Source of Funds and Legality: You guarantee that the funds used for trading or investing do not involve any illegal activities, including but not limited to: drug trafficking, kidnapping, terrorism financing, or any other unlawful acts; any money laundering or fraudulent activities as may be determined by regulatory bodies. If we suspect your involvement in such activities, we have the right to take the following actions:

- (a) Immediately terminate your access to the online trading platform and may freeze or close your account;
- (b) We are under no obligation to refund any funds in your account unless required by regulatory authorities;
- (c) Restrict your access to our website, services, or accounts;
- (d) We may provide your information to regulatory bodies, law enforcement agencies, banks, payment providers, etc., to assist in the investigation of illegal activities and request your cooperation in the relevant investigations;

62.3 Trading Behavior and Obligations:

- (a) Comply with applicable laws, rules, and regulations to ensure that trading activities are in compliance;
- (b) Immediately notify us of any events that may affect the trade, such as default or potential default;
- (c) Do not place false or misleading orders or instruct the execution of transactions that may violate the law;
- (d) Maintain integrity in trading to ensure compliance with market standards and conduct codes;
- (e) Provide any necessary information related to the trade, as requested by us, to demonstrate compliance.

62.4 Specific Occupational Restrictions: If you are an employee or contractor of a financial institution or financial services company, and your company has internal policies or regulatory restrictions on personal trading, you must proactively notify us. We reserve the right to request confirmation from your compliance department to ensure that your account activities comply with relevant regulations.

62.5 You shall not use our bid/ask quotations for any non-trading purposes, nor shall you redistribute them to any third party or use them for commercial purposes.

62.6 The foregoing representations and warranties shall automatically apply upon the execution of each transaction, contract, or order and shall remain in full force and effect throughout the duration of the business relationship.

63. Information Disclosure

63.1 Neither party shall disclose any information relating to the business, investments, financial affairs, or other confidential matters of the other party, whether obtained in the course of performing its duties or otherwise acquired. Each party shall take all reasonable measures to prevent such information from being disclosed. However, this clause shall not apply where disclosure is required by applicable law, legislative or regulatory authorities, other persons or entities legally entitled to request such disclosure, or where necessary for the performance of obligations under this clause.

63.2 By accepting these Terms and Conditions, you authorize us to disclose your relevant information to the appropriate authorities in accordance with applicable laws, rules, regulations, or regulatory requirements (including applicable market rules), without prior notice to you.

63.3 By accepting these Terms and Conditions, you authorize us to share the personal information you have provided with our affiliates for the purposes of providing trading advice, facilitating trading activities, and offering sales and market information. Furthermore, we may disclose your information to third-party entities conducting client analysis on our behalf, as well as to any trading counterparties or introducing brokers for the purposes of conducting due diligence and approving your account application.

64. FATCA

64.1 The Company, its affiliates, and service providers may collect, store, and process information obtained from clients or disclose such information to governmental authorities in accordance with the Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act (FATCA) or other applicable laws, rules, and regulations, as required under this Agreement and in connection with transactions, including information-sharing arrangements. The Client acknowledges that the transmission of such information may involve jurisdictions that do not have strict data protection, privacy, or banking secrecy laws. The Client shall ensure that neither they nor any individual acting on their behalf discloses any information relating to the Company, its affiliates, or service providers to any third party without proper authorization or consent. Furthermore, if a third party requires access to such information, the Client shall authorize such third party and provide the necessary consents or waivers to enable the Company, its affiliates, and service providers to lawfully collect, store, process, and disclose such information.

64.2 By accepting these Terms and Conditions, you authorize us to disclose information directly or indirectly to relevant tax authorities or third parties authorized to conduct corporate tax reviews. Such information may be obtained from you or generated in connection with this Agreement and transactions. Additionally, if the Company holds any other information related to your account, it may further disclose such information to tax authorities as necessary.

65. Common Reporting Standards (CRS)

65.1 The Common Reporting Standard (CRS) requires the automatic annual exchange of financial account information between participating jurisdictions. Financial institutions, including the Company, are required to submit relevant information to local tax authorities, which will then transmit such information to the appropriate foreign tax authorities.

65.2 In order to comply with CRS requirements, the Company, its affiliates, and service providers may collect, store, and process information obtained from clients or disclose such information to governmental authorities in accordance with CRS or other applicable laws, rules, and regulations, as required under this Agreement and in connection with transactions, including information-sharing arrangements. The Client acknowledges that the transmission of such information may involve jurisdictions that do not have strict data protection, privacy, or banking secrecy laws. The Client shall ensure that neither they nor any individual acting on their behalf discloses any information relating to the Company, its affiliates, or service providers to any third party without proper authorization or consent. Furthermore, if a third party requires access to such information, the Client shall authorize such third party and provide the necessary consents or waivers to enable the Company, its affiliates, and service providers to lawfully collect, store, process, and disclose such information.

65.3 By accepting these Terms and Conditions, you authorize us to directly or indirectly disclose information to relevant tax authorities or third parties authorized to conduct corporate tax reviews. Such information may be obtained from you or generated in connection with this Agreement and transactions. Additionally, if the Company holds any other information related to your account, it may further disclose such information to tax authorities as necessary.

65.4 By accepting these Terms and Conditions, you confirm that the Company holds accurate, up-to-date, and complete information regarding your tax residency status.

65.5 You undertake to notify the Company within 30 days of any change that affects your tax residency status or renders any previously provided information inaccurate or incomplete.

66. Regulatory Matters

66.1 Nothing in this Agreement shall be construed as limiting or exempting the Company from its obligations under the applicable regulatory framework, relevant laws, rules, and regulations.

66.2 The Company may, at its sole discretion, take any actions it deems necessary to ensure compliance with applicable regulatory rules or any relevant laws, rules, and regulations. Such actions shall be binding upon you and shall not impose any liability on us or any of our affiliates.

66.3 You expressly acknowledge and agree to cooperate with us and any applicable regulatory authorities, upon receiving reasonable notice from us, to ensure compliance with regulatory requirements related to this Agreement.

67. Tax Implications

67.1 We do not provide any tax advice in relation to any services. You should consult an independent personal tax advisor (such as a professional financial advisor, accountant, or legal counsel) to understand the potential tax implications of our services.

67.2 You further understand, acknowledge, and agree that the Company generally does not collect taxes on behalf of any authority in any form or manner. You are solely responsible for any tax implications arising from your trading activities or the use of our online trading platform.

67.3 In addition to the foregoing, you are responsible for calculating and paying all taxes applicable to you in your country of residence or any other jurisdiction, arising from your trading activities or use of our services.

67.4 Without prejudice to your sole responsibility for tax payments, you agree that we may, in accordance with applicable laws, withhold any relevant taxes and deduct the corresponding amount from your trading account to fulfill tax obligations. Furthermore, we reserve the right, where legally required, to deduct any taxes from your account or to require you to pay or reimburse us for such amounts, and you shall not have any right to object.

67.5 If applicable laws or regulations require us to withhold any amounts, thereby obligating us to withhold and remit taxes on transactions related to your account or our services, we shall have the right to deduct such amounts from your account or require you to pay or reimburse us for the withheld taxes.

68. Privacy and Data Protection

68.1 You acknowledge and agree that by signing this Agreement, opening a trading account, and using our online trading facilities, you are providing us with your personal data in accordance with the requirements of the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR 679/2016) or any other applicable data protection laws and regulations. If you choose not to provide personal data, we may be unable to provide our services to you in accordance with applicable laws and regulations or grant you access to our online trading facilities.

68.5 We do not collect or request disclosure of special categories of personal data (such as racial or ethnic origin, religious beliefs, political opinions, etc.). If you choose to provide such sensitive data to us, it shall be deemed that you have consented to its processing for the specific purpose for which you provided it, unless you notify us otherwise in writing.

68.6 Most of the information we collect is provided directly by you. 68.7 We collect, retain, and use the information you provide in compliance with applicable data protection and anti-money laundering regulations and solely for the purposes for which the data is collected. You agree that we may rely on, store, and process your information to fulfill our obligations under this Agreement, including but not limited to: Verifying your identity to comply with legal requirements, managing our relationship with you and administering your account, communicating with you periodically, restoring access privileges, evaluating your application, conducting risk assessments, complying with regulatory obligations and developing and analyzing our products and services.

68.8 You acknowledge and agree that, in order to provide services to you, we may need to transfer your personal data to third-party service providers located outside the European Economic Area ("EEA"), and you consent to such transfers. We shall ensure that such transfers comply with applicable laws and require the recipient to adhere to applicable data protection standards. In accordance with Article 46 of the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), we shall implement appropriate safeguards, including but not limited to:

- (a) Standard Contractual Clauses (SCCs);
- (b) Binding Corporate Rules (BCRs);

- (c) EU-U.S. Data Privacy Framework (DPF); or
- (d) Other applicable legal mechanisms.

Pursuant to the foregoing, your personal data may be processed by employees located outside the EEA who work for us or for our service providers. Such employees may be engaged in, among other activities, fulfilling your requests, processing payment details, and providing support services. By submitting your personal data, you consent to its transfer, storage, and processing. We shall take all reasonable and necessary measures to ensure that your data is treated securely and in accordance with this Privacy Policy.

68.9 We, or our affiliated entities, shall not disclose your personal data to any third party except in the following circumstances:

- (b) Where disclosure is necessary for public interest as required by applicable laws;
- (c) Where disclosure is required for our legitimate business interests; or
- (d) Where you have requested or consented to such disclosure.

Additionally, our affiliated entities include subsidiaries that we own or that own us, as well as jointly held enterprises. The information shared with these affiliated entities may include your name, address, transaction records, and account details. Our affiliated entities will protect your information under the same standards outlined in these terms and our privacy policy.

- (b) Sharing Information with Third Parties

We shall not disclose your personal data to third parties except as provided in this Agreement. However, we may share your information with non-affiliated entities to support your account operations or assist in processing your transactions and agreements. This may include institutions providing professional, legal, or accounting advice, or agencies conducting credit assessments on our behalf. Additionally, we may share information with non-affiliated entities that assist us in providing services, provided that such entities maintain the confidentiality of the data and use it solely for the specified service duration.

If you explicitly consent or instruct us, we may disclose your personal data to third parties as authorized by you. We commit not to sell your personal data.

68.10 You agree that we or our appointed agents may conduct credit and identity verification checks on our behalf, including anti-money laundering (AML) checks, regulatory compliance reporting, and fraud prevention screenings. We may also request necessary or disclosable information from your bank or any credit reference agencies and assess the information obtained. You understand and agree that we may share your personal data with any third parties mentioned in this clause, and that such third parties may provide this information to other institutions involved in credit referencing, fraud prevention, or similar purposes.

68.11 By submitting the application form, you agree to be bound by the terms and conditions and privacy policy published on our website, as updated from time to time. We may use your information to contact you regarding our products and services or to communicate with you about other products or services we believe may be of interest to you. Chapter 11: Indemnification and Limitation of Liability

70. Risk of Loss; Limitation of Liability

70.1 You may choose at your own discretion whether to conduct transactions using our online trading platform. This platform should not be relied upon as the primary basis for your investment decisions. All investment and trading decisions are made solely at your own discretion and risk. We and any affiliated entities assume no responsibility for assessing the suitability or feasibility of your transactions and have no obligation to provide investment advisory or fiduciary services.

70.2 Without prejudice to other provisions of this Agreement, our online trading platform is provided on an "as is" basis. Neither we, our affiliates, nor any third-party service providers make any representations or warranties regarding:

- (a) The availability, continuity, accuracy, or completeness of the online trading platform;
- (b) The results that you or any other person may obtain from using the platform;
- (c) The accuracy, quality, reliability, security, completeness, performance, timeliness, pricing, or continuous availability of any third-party content accessed through the platform. Furthermore, we, our affiliates, or any third-party service providers shall not be liable for any failures in connectivity or communication services, including but not limited to interruptions caused by your or your authorized representatives' access to the platform.

70.3 Without prejudice to other provisions of this Agreement, neither we nor our affiliates shall be liable for any losses, damages, costs, or expenses, whether directly or indirectly caused by negligence, breach of contract, misrepresentation, or any other reason. Unless otherwise required by applicable law, and only in cases where such losses are directly caused by our or our affiliates' gross negligence, willful misconduct, or fraud, we shall not bear any liability.

Specifically, we shall not be responsible for any special, indirect, or consequential damages (including but not limited to loss of profits or loss of business opportunities) arising from:

- (a) Transactions or contracts executed by your authorized representatives under this Agreement (including cases where we refuse to execute a transaction or contract);

- (b) Any reasonably foreseeable consequences;
- (c) Actions or omissions directly attributable to us or our affiliates.

Furthermore, we and our affiliates shall not be liable for any losses or damages that were not a reasonably foreseeable consequence of our breach.

70.4 You understand and agree that:

- (a) Any market information or third-party recommendations provided to you or your authorized representatives do not constitute our investment advice or an offer to enter into a contract;
- (b) Any market information or recommendations may originate from third-party sources, and we do not guarantee their accuracy or completeness;
- (c) We are not responsible for any decisions or losses incurred by you or your authorized representatives as a result of relying on such information;
- (d) We are not liable for any losses arising from third-party transactions, technical errors, network delays, or equipment failures.

70.5 As we have no control over the speed, routing, or reliability of the internet, neither we nor our affiliates shall be responsible for any communication errors, transaction delays, or other impacts caused by internet connectivity issues or equipment failures.

70.6 We are not obligated to proactively contact you or provide recommendations for appropriate actions in response to changes in market conditions, including but not limited to market disruptions. You acknowledge and agree that the leveraged derivatives market is highly speculative and volatile. Therefore, after executing any transaction, it is your sole responsibility to manage and maintain communication with us and to monitor your trading positions to ensure that you can be contacted in a timely manner when further action is required. If we are unable to reach you, we shall not be liable for any resulting losses or damages.

70.7 Without prejudice to other provisions of this Agreement, neither we nor our affiliates shall be liable for any losses arising from:

- (a) Actions or omissions of any partners, business introducers, authorized representatives, or other third parties acting on your behalf;

70.8 No provision of this Agreement shall exclude or limit any statutory rights or liabilities that cannot be excluded or limited by law or regulatory authorities. However, without prejudice to other provisions of this Agreement, neither we nor our affiliates shall be liable for any losses arising from force majeure events (including but not limited to war, acts of terrorism, strikes, or changes in government regulations) or the failure of third-party entities (such as brokers, clearing houses, or trading markets) to fulfill their obligations, unless otherwise required by applicable law or regulatory authorities.

71. Disclaimer

71.1 Without prejudice to other provisions of this Agreement, we do not provide any express or implied warranties regarding the online trading platform, including but not limited to implied warranties of merchantability, fitness for a particular purpose, or non-infringement. The online trading platform is provided on an "as is" basis, and we shall not be responsible for any costs or damages directly or indirectly arising from your access to or use of the platform. You are responsible for evaluating the accuracy, completeness, and usefulness of all information, opinions, products, services, goods, and other materials obtained through the platform or the internet. We do not guarantee that any defects or errors will be corrected.

71.2 We do not guarantee that the online trading platform will meet your requirements or that it will operate uninterrupted, timely, secure, or error-free. We also do not guarantee that the results obtained through the platform will be accurate or reliable, or that any products, services, information, or other materials obtained through the platform will meet your expectations.

72. Disclaimer and Limitation of Liability

72.1 Our obligations under this Agreement do not constitute personal liability for our directors, senior management, shareholders, partners, employees, affiliates, agents, representatives, third-party service providers, and/or any related parties.

72.2 To the maximum extent permitted by law, we shall not be liable for any indirect, incidental, special, or consequential damages (including but not limited to loss of profits, trading losses, or damages, inconvenience, or delays caused by the use or inability to use the online trading platform and third-party content). This disclaimer applies even if such damages were foreseeable or we were advised of the possibility of such damages.

72.3 Unless otherwise required by law, we shall not be liable for any losses caused by events beyond our direct control, including but not limited to electronic or mechanical equipment failure, communication link disruptions (such as telephone or internet), unauthorized access, viruses, hacking, operational errors, service interruptions, extreme weather conditions (such as floods, earthquakes, or other natural disasters), war, riots, acts of terrorism, strikes, labor disputes, or other government actions.

72.4 Any liability arising under this Agreement shall be limited to the revenue generated under this Agreement. Under no circumstances shall our liability exceed the total revenue generated under this Agreement in the six months preceding the event. This limitation of liability applies even if we have been advised of the possibility of such damages or if the limited remedies provided in this Agreement fail to achieve their essential purpose.

73. Indemnification

73.1 As a condition of using the online trading platform, you agree to indemnify and hold harmless us, our affiliates, and third-party service providers from any claims, losses, liabilities, or expenses (including reasonable attorney fees) arising from your or your authorized representatives' breach of this Agreement (including negligence or misconduct) or use of the platform.

73.2 If you breach this Agreement, make any misrepresentation, or if we incur costs in protecting our rights—including but not limited to debts, losses, damages, reasonable attorney fees, taxes, duties, and fines—you shall pay the required amount upon our request to settle any outstanding account obligations.

73.3 You shall be responsible for all orders submitted through the online trading platform and shall fully pay any fees incurred from transaction and contract settlements.

73.4 If we or our related personnel (including directors, officers, shareholders, partners, employees, agents, and third-party service providers) suffer claims, losses, or related expenses (including reasonable attorney fees) due to any of the following circumstances, you shall provide legal defense and bear the costs:

Errors in instructions provided by an authorized person, resulting in actual damages;

Execution of transactions based on instructions from an authorized person (or instructions reasonably believed to be from an authorized person), leading to third-party claims or other losses.

74. Independent Investigation

74.1 You acknowledge that you have read this Agreement and agree to all its terms and conditions. You have independently assessed the advantages, disadvantages, and risks of using the online trading platform and engaging in transactions and contracts. Your decision has been made without reliance on any information, advice, or guidance provided by the online trading platform or us. You understand and agree that we have made no representations, warranties, or statements and have provided no guarantees that contradict the contents of this Agreement.

74.2 You have independently assessed the laws applicable to you and confirmed that your activities comply with local legal requirements. You represent and warrant that you may participate in transactions and contracts on the online trading platform in accordance with local laws and regulations without violating any applicable laws or rules.

Chapter 12: Default

75. Default

An event of default ("Event of Default") shall be deemed to have occurred upon the occurrence of any of the following events:

(a) Payment or Delivery Default

The failure by you to make any payment due under this Agreement by the due date, to deliver any asset (including but not limited to currency, financial instruments, or other consideration), or to fulfill any other obligation under this Agreement, where such default continues beyond the permissible period prescribed by applicable market regulations and a default notice has been issued by us.

(b) Failure to Settle Transactions

Your failure to fulfill any payment or delivery obligations arising from a transaction or contract (including but not limited to transactions conducted through intermediaries).

(c) Deterioration of Financial Condition

Your failure to pay any due debt, or a determination that your financial condition indicates an inability to meet due debts (including insolvency, inability to pay debts as they fall due, or negative net assets), or your classification as insolvent under applicable bankruptcy or insolvency laws.

(d) Bankruptcy, Liquidation, or Restructuring Proceedings

- The failure to pay any debt upon its due date without remedy within a reasonable period;
- The initiation of enforcement, seizure, or asset freezing proceedings against you by any law enforcement authority, court, or regulatory body;
- Your voluntary application for bankruptcy, liquidation, restructuring, or debt reorganization;
- The filing of a bankruptcy, liquidation, or restructuring petition against you by a third party, which is not dismissed within five (5) business days.

(e) Legal or Regulatory Intervention

- Regulatory authorities, courts, or governmental agencies imposing regulatory, restrictive, or punitive measures preventing you from fulfilling contractual obligations;
- Your trading activities being subject to investigation or freezing by regulatory authorities, courts, or governmental agencies;
- Regulatory changes rendering your transactions or contracts unenforceable.

(f) Misrepresentation False Documents, or Inaccurate Information

Any material error, falsehood, inaccuracy, incompleteness, outdated information, unverifiable information, inconsistency, misleading statement, or suspected forgery in any information, representation, warranty, document, material, explanation, or confirmation provided by you to the Company, where such information may affect your contractual obligations or the Company's assessment of your identity, source of funds, source of wealth, financial condition, investment capacity, risk tolerance, purpose of account usage, beneficial owner, ultimate controller, or account risk classification, shall constitute an Event of Default.

The foregoing includes, but is not limited to, the provision of false or unverifiable KYC documents, identity documents, proof of address, proof of financial capacity, source of funds documentation, source of wealth documentation, proof of payment, bank account verification documents, beneficial ownership information, information regarding the actual controller, or any other documents or explanations reasonably requested by the Company.

(g) Serious Identity Violations, Nominee Trading, and Withholding of Principal

Where the Company reasonably determines that a client account, related account, or related trading activity involves, or is highly likely to involve, nominee trading, non-genuine identity verification, identity theft, forged or fraudulently used KYC documents, account holding on behalf of another person, account lending, account leasing, account trading, third-party actual control, circumvention of identity verification procedures, circumvention of KYC/AML/CFT reviews, abnormal fund movements, misuse of payment instruments, unlawful third-party funds, fraud, chargeback/refund abuse, improper trading activities, or any other serious violation of this Agreement, platform rules, or applicable laws and regulations, such conduct shall constitute a Material Event of Default.

Upon the occurrence of any such Material Event of Default, the Company shall have the right, without further notice to the client, to immediately take one or more of the following measures:

- (i) Restrict, suspend, or terminate account functions;
- (ii) Refuse, defer, or cancel any withdrawal, refund, return of funds, transfer, or account closure request;
- (iii) Freeze, withhold, set off, or decline to return all or any part of the principal, account balance, trading profits, bonuses, rebates, rewards, incentives, discounts, or other amounts payable in the account and any related accounts;
- (iv) Cancel, reverse, recover, or adjust all or any part of the transactions, profits, bonuses, rebates, rewards, or incentives;
- (v) Apply the relevant principal, account balance, or other amounts toward the set-off of fees, losses, compensation, investigation costs, legal and compliance costs, third-party verification costs, payment channel costs, banking fees, chargeback/refund risks, administrative handling costs, or other reasonable costs owed by the client to the Company;
- (vi) Terminate the client relationship and close the account;
- (vii) Continue to freeze, withhold, report, or otherwise deal with the relevant funds as required by law or by regulatory authorities, law enforcement authorities, payment institutions, banks, financial institutions, or third-party verification agencies.

The client acknowledges and agrees that, where any of the foregoing serious violations exist, the relevant principal and account balance may not be regarded as funds that are immediately withdrawable or subject to unconditional return. The Company's freezing, withholding, set-off, non-return, or delayed processing of such funds shall not constitute a breach by the Company and shall not give rise to any obligation to pay interest, damages, or compensation.

(h) Abnormal Trading During Major News Events or News Event Trading Abuse

Where the Company reasonably determines that a Client's Account, Related Account(s), or related trading activities involve, or are highly likely to involve, abnormal trading during major news events, News Event Trading Abuse, temporary account opening, temporary deposits, prolonged inactivity followed by concentrated trading solely during major news announcements, abnormal increases in trading volume, fully or substantially fully margined trading, cross-account or cross-platform hedging, account splitting, deliberate amplification of risk exposure through minimal funding, abuse of the Negative Balance Protection mechanism, exploitation of market gaps, insufficient liquidity, quotation delays, forced liquidation mechanisms, or the Company's risk management mechanisms to obtain an improper advantage, or otherwise produce trading results with an obvious imbalance between risk assumed and profit obtained, such conduct shall constitute an Event of Default. Where the circumstances are serious, such conduct shall constitute a Material Event of Default.

The Company permits Clients to engage in normal trading during periods of major news announcements, including, without limitation, major economic releases, central bank decisions, interest rate decisions, employment data, inflation data, GDP releases, regulatory announcements, unexpected market events, or any other event capable of causing significant market volatility. However, such trading must be based upon an Account with an established history of normal trading activity and must remain reasonably consistent with the Account's historical trading behaviour, trading volume, account funding level, risk tolerance, deposit pattern, position management, and trading frequency.

Where a Client's Account, Related Account(s), or related trading activities exhibit one or more of the following circumstances, the Company may reasonably determine that such conduct constitutes abnormal trading during major news events or News Event Trading Abuse:

- (i) The Account conducts trading only immediately before or after major news announcements, including major economic releases, central bank decisions, interest rate decisions, employment data, inflation data, GDP releases, regulatory announcements, unexpected market events, or other major market-moving events, without demonstrating a normal, continuous, or reasonable trading history;
- (ii) The Client temporarily opens an Account, makes temporary deposits, materially increases trading volume, temporarily expands risk exposure, or concentrates trading activity immediately before or after major news events;
- (iii) The Account has little or no normal trading history over an extended period, or its historical trading pattern differs materially from its trading volume, trading frequency, lot size, or position management during major news events;

(iv) During major news events, the Client suddenly and materially increases trading volume, engages in fully or substantially fully margined trading, or trades at a level significantly exceeding the Account's historical funding level, trading behaviour, or reasonable risk tolerance;

(v) The Client conducts long and short hedging, split trading, wash trading, cross-account hedging, or cross-platform hedging during major news events through multiple Accounts, Related Accounts, third-party accounts, or newly established Accounts;

(vi) The Client deliberately amplifies market exposure through minimal funding, low margin, excessive leverage, or any similar method, and exploits the Company's Negative Balance Protection mechanism, forced liquidation mechanism, quotation delays, insufficient liquidity, slippage, market gaps, or extreme market volatility to transfer trading losses to the Company or otherwise produce trading results demonstrating a material imbalance between risk and reward;

(vii) Trading executed within five (5) minutes before or after a major news announcement represents fifty percent (50%) or more of the Client's total trading volume;

(viii) The Client's trading behaviour demonstrates that its principal purpose is not genuine market speculation or a legitimate ongoing trading strategy, but rather to exploit price gaps, insufficient liquidity, execution delays, market volatility, the Negative Balance Protection mechanism, or the Company's risk management mechanisms during major news events to obtain an improper advantage; or

(ix) Based on the Account history, trading time, trading volume, trading frequency, position size, deposit timing, deposit amount, Related Accounts, device information, IP addresses, login records, payment channels, order patterns, profit and loss distribution, risk exposure, or any other relevant risk indicators, the Company reasonably believes that the relevant Account(s) are engaged in News Event Trading Abuse, abnormal trading, risk transfer, or any other improper trading activity.

Upon the occurrence of any such Event of Default or Material Event of Default, the Company shall have the right, without prior notice to the Client, to take any one or more of the following actions:

(i) Designate the relevant Account(s), Related Account(s), and trading activities as subject to enhanced risk review;

- (ii) Restrict, suspend, or terminate the relevant Account's trading, deposits, withdrawals, refunds, transfers, account closure, or any other fund-related functionality;
- (iii) Cancel, reverse, reclaim, adjust, or otherwise invalidate any affected orders, trades, open positions, trading profits, bonuses, rebates, rewards, promotional benefits, or any other associated benefits;
- (iv) Cancel, modify, suspend, or disapply the Negative Balance Protection mechanism;
- (v) Consolidate Related Accounts for the purposes of investigation, calculation, set-off, offsetting, and net settlement;
- (vi) Charge the fees set out in Clause 47.7, including a six percent (6%) principal processing fee, a USD 3.00 investigation fee per traded lot, a special administrative fee of three percent (3%) to five percent (5%) applicable to high-risk Accounts, together with any other consequential charges;
- (vii) Freeze, withhold, set off, deduct, or refuse to return all or any portion of the principal, account balance, trading profits, or any other funds held in the relevant Account(s) or Related Account(s);
- (viii) Apply such funds toward the settlement of any fees, losses, damages, investigation costs, legal and regulatory compliance costs, third-party verification costs, payment channel costs, banking charges, chargeback or refund risks, administrative expenses, or any other reasonable costs owed by the Client to the Company;
- (ix) Terminate the Client relationship and close the relevant Account(s); and/or
- (x) Take any other action considered necessary or appropriate pursuant to applicable laws, regulatory requirements, Platform Rules, or the Company's internal risk management policies.

The Client acknowledges and agrees that trading conducted during periods of major news announcements shall not, by itself, constitute an Event of Default. However, where such trading materially deviates from the Account's established trading history, trading behaviour, funding level, trading volume, risk tolerance, deposit timing, deposit amount, position management, or risk exposure, or where the Company reasonably determines that the Client has sought to exploit major news events, market volatility, the Negative Balance Protection mechanism, or the Company's risk management mechanisms to conduct improper trading or transfer trading risk to the Company, the Company shall be entitled to investigate and take appropriate action in accordance with this Agreement.
